Fire amendment worries businesses

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Despite high opposition, the Antioch Village Board passed an amendment which would force about 50 local businesses to add monitoring systems to existing fire suppression equipment.

The new amendment, designed to ensure public safety in the event of a fire, will require a fully monitored alarm system for any building which has a chemical fire suppression system that can be activated without the Fire Department's knowledge.

"What we are trying to prevent here is the possibility that a fire would be apparently extinguished by an Ansul system when actually the fire still burns in the ceiling," said Antioch Public Safety Inspector Lee Shannon.

Specifically targeted by the amendment are restaurants with a floor area in excess of 2,500 square feet or a possible capacity of 167 or more when the seating area and commercial kitchen are situated on the same floor.

Others that would be affected are restaurants where the seating area is located above the kitchen, when a residential apartment is located above a kitchen area and when a restaurant kitchen is not separated from another business or seating area with at least a two-hour fire rated brick wall.

Much of the opposition comes from restaurant owners who would have to comply with the ordinance by May 1 (Continued on Page 8)

Mild winter weather may improve roads

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

With spring right around the corner and old-man winter limping away without even a whimper, the local highway departments hope to get a jump on those summer maintenance duties with the money saved from the warm winter.

Antioch Township, the largest township in Lake County, plans to use the left over snow removal funds to boost the effort in the maintenance of the some 90 miles of roads in the township.

"We plan to use our left over money in the large number of road resurfacing projects scheduled for this summer," said Antioch Township Highway commissioner Mark Ring.

So far this season, only 14.5 inches of snow has fallen in the Lake County area, according to the National Climatic Data Center in Virginia. This, compared to the over 80 inches that has fallen near (Continued on Page 5)

GCHS OKs cuts, increases fees

GRAYSLAKE—The basic fee and fees charged for sports will double or almost double and the secretarial staff will be trimmed by eight positions next year. Those were among the highlights in cost-cutting moves approved by the board of education. Also, a reorganization was approved, eliminating all the department chair positions and going to five divisions as of the 1992-93 school year.

Panel discusses rent control

PARK CITY—The city's ad-hoc rent control committee accepted testimony from residents for the second time at a Tuesday meeting. Some 30 people attended the Park City meeting. The committee is looking into all aspects of rent in the city. The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. March 10 at Park City Community Center, 333 Teske Blvd.

Big Chamber fair on tap this weekend

FOX LAKE — Prizes, entertainment, food and a chance to see what nearly 70 businesses and organizations have to offer will be the bill of fare during the Fox Lake Area Chamber of Commerce's Home, Trade and Leisure Fair '92 this weekend at Grant High School. The fair will run Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. There's no admission charge and there will be plenty of free parking. Since the fair will be held in the east gym, visitors may park in the lot off Rte. 59 or Devlin Road.

Four arrested on drug charges

FOX LAKE — Police believe they have helped put a plug in a pot pipeline to Grant High School. A concerted six-week investigation by local police, the Lake County Metropolitan Enforcement Group and the North Central Narcotics Task Force netted the Feb. 25 arrests of four people for the unlawful delivery of cannabis. Arrested were Clinton R. Ewig, 23; Jennifer A. Dillon, 18; Theodore L. Montaigne, 20; and Anton G. Lutz, 24.

Zanies will open new comedy club

VERNON HILLS—Zanies Comedy Club will open its fourth Chicago-area location in August at a mall near Hawthorn Center. For $8 patrons will be able to see an 1-1/2 hour all-comedy show, eat from a limited menu and drink. Demographic studies by the firm showed no comparable entertainment in the north suburbs. Many customers at the Zanies on Wells St. in Chicago, Mt. Prospect and St. Charles are from northern Illinois. A fifth Zanies is in Nashville.

Trustees reject townhomes

LAKE ZURICH—It's thumbs-down to Developer Tom Underly's proposed Breezewood Court Townhome project. Village trustees overwhelmingly defeated his plan with a 5-1 vote, Monday evening. Trustees voted against the motion to rezone the 5.5 acre parcel of land at 115 N. Old Rand Road, formerly known as Breezewald Park, to multi-family from its current single-family status. Trustees had commented throughout the past three months of negotiations that the project was too dense. The developer reduced the size of the units but kept the number of units at 19. Trustees had said 18 units was the recommended number. Also at issue in the negotiations were the impact on the village's sewer and water services and storm water run-off. Townhomes in the development would have started at $300,000.

Trustees reduce budget by $190,000

LIBERTYVILLE—Trustees have cut $190,000 from the proposed 1992-93 fiscal year budget following two workshop sessions which concluded Tuesday night. The savings resulted from Fire Chief Jack Reitman's recommendation to purchase a "quint" truck, a combination pumper and aerial ladder vehicle, for $460,000. Village staff had slated separate trucks for replacement between 1991 and 1993 which would have cost $650,000. The proposed 1992-93 budget includes $696,250 in vehicle replacements and by April 30, the end of the fiscal year, will have a balance of about $2.1 million. Staff has recommended suspending annual transfers from operating departments to the vehicle replacement fund in order to increase the general fund balance.

Board honors DARE donators

GURNEE—Gurnee Village Board began its first meeting in the new village hall by honoring a long-time contributor to the community. Mayor Dick Welton presented Elmer Fallos with a plaque for donating $1,000 to the police department's DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. The funds went for t-shirts, given to students who graduate from the 17-week program.

Drivers hear rumors of dist. job security

ROUND LAKE— Information that District 116 had reconsidered contracting bus service spread like wildfire to transportation union members and bus drivers whose jobs may be on the line. Early Tuesday several union members and most bus drivers were informed that their jobs were no longer in limbo, the board had agreed to drop contracting bus services from its list of proposed cuts following a weekend meeting. However, according to Bob Hubka, board president, the negotiations meeting held Feb. 29 was only to update the board on proposed cuts and negotiations.

100 years celebrated at festive ball

ANTIOCH— The Village of Antioch's Centennial was celebrated at Maravela's in Fox Lake on Feb. 29. The event drew 481 party revelers some dressed in turn-of-the-century fashions. The main event of the evening was the naming of numerous Hall of Fame inductees recognized for their contributions to the village and its people. The Antioch Women's Club sponsored the event. Funds raised will go towards the renovation of the Toft Avenue parking lot.

Antioch celebrated its 100th birthday in grand style Saturday night at the Centennial Ball held at Maravela's in Fox Lake.

Amid the turn-of-the-century melodies of the Walter Nechoda Trio, guests arrived in their finest. Many women were clad in the floor-length fashions of the 19th century. Their partners wore top hats and tails.

The event organized by the Antioch Women's Club drew 481 guests and raised about $10,000, according to Mabel Lou Weber, mistress of ceremonies. The money will go towards the beautification, this spring, of the Toft Avenue East parking lot.

The evening included the presentation of the General Assembly Proclamation by state Rep. Robert Churchill, the auctioning of the Antioch Centennial Commemorative Plates and, of course, dining and dancing.

But the biggest part of the evening was the presentation of the Hall of Fame inductees.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Anderson were inducted into the Hall of Fame in recognition of the property donated for the Scout House, the Aqua Center, and Williams and Jensen Parks. Lorraine Anderson Schroeder donated the land the library stands on. Helen E. Osmond donated the Osmond Park land. Murrill Cunningham's gift was the site of the Hiram Buttrick Sawmill.

Dr. George Jensen, Ted Larson and Homer La Plant chaired construction of the Antioch Aqua Center. Walter Shepard directed reconstruction of the sawmill.

Dollie Spiering was instrumental in organizing the Antioch AARP group. Dr. William C. Petty, served as the Antioch Grade School Superintendent and later the Lake County Superintendent of Schools. His wife, Lillie, served on the first Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

George B. Bartlett, Dr. W.W. Warriner, Walter Scott and Charles Mapplethorpe served on the grade school board of education. The property for the grade school was donated by D.A. Williams. Mrs. Fern Lux Watson taught grade school children for 45 years.

Serving on the high school board of education were Bill Brook, Gus Costoff, and Helen Osmond. Alice E. Smith was an educational pioneer in Antioch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Brooks were the patrons of St. Ignatius. St. Peter's Church and School were constructed on land donated by Bernard Naber.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vos donated the village Christmas tree. Walter Scott served as police chief for 25 years. Betty Lu Williams volunteered for many years with Girl Scouts and Rainbow Girls.

The founders of PM & L Theatre were Kenneth Smouse, Jacqueline Miller Horton and Dr. James W. Kopriva. Mrs. Janet Brook served as officer and chaired many committees for the Lake County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

James McMillen was a professional athlete having worked with the Chicago Bears and later as a professional wrestler.

Members of the Antioch Fire Dept and the Antioch Rescue Squad were included in the Hall of Fame. Herman Holbek was one of the organizers of the Rescue Squad. Walter Scott was one of the squads charter members. Dr. James W. Kopriva initiated training and certification.

Antioch man sentenced after girlfriend's death

An Antioch man charged in the death of his girlfriend in an alcohol-related car crash has received the maximum sentence.

Robert Stanley, 23, was sentenced to nine years imprisonment after pleading guilty to the reckless homicide of Sheri Best, 17, Round Lake.

Though reckless homicide carries a maximum sentence of 14 years, it was agreed that Stanley would not receive more than nine.

The sentence drew a mixed reaction from the courtroom, Stanley bowed his head as the sentence was delivered.

At least eight persons testified during the sentencing including members of Stanley's family and Best's family.

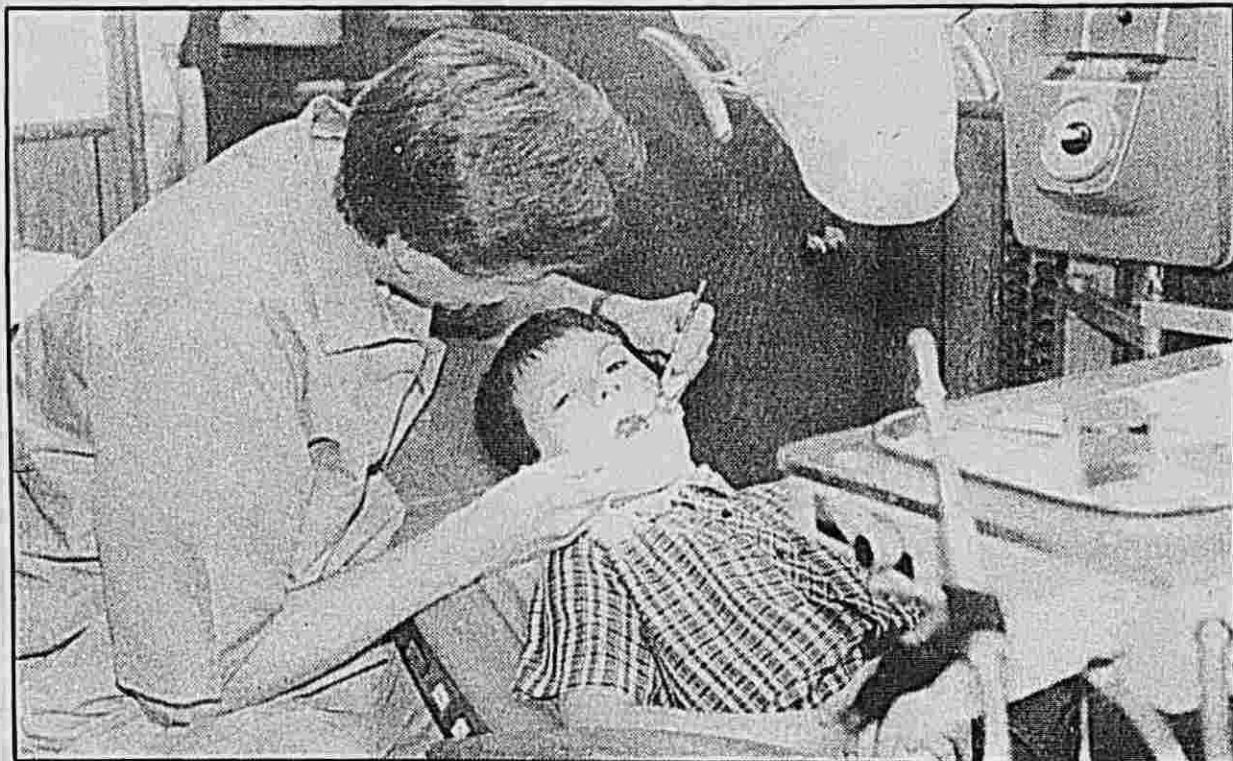

While his family and friends stated

Stanley had made an effort to seek counseling for alcohol and other problems, Sheri's mother, Linda Best requested the Antioch man be given no special consideration.

Best died Oct. 5 following a one-car collision. Stanley, the driver of the vehicle, was reportedly driving at a high rate of speed when his vehicle swerved and struck a tree near Orchard Ct. and Idlewild.

Witnesses prior to the accident said Stanley had been drinking at a party shortly before the accident.

Blood-alcohol tests taken shortly after the accident showed Stanley's blood alcohol level at .094 percent, just under the legal level of .10 percent.

Birthday wishes

Let's start this first column in March off with the Hometown Goodies birthday list. Happy March birthday to the following people from Lizard and readers—Valerie Aronson, Beth Boerman, Tyler Bolton, Alyssa Casey, Holly Clarke, Amanda Cramer, Joey Coia, Michaeline Dituro, Jim Foerster, Carrie Hiller, Sally Hiller, Candice Kasprzak, Aimee Kitto, Jef LaForge, Tommy Marquart, Kyle Milovanovic, Keegan Misch, Brian Mozal, Bob Olenick, Wayne Olsen, Jr., Dino Parenti, Kim Schmehl Sr., Anne Slightham, Shane Spencer, Lori Teaters, Tara Lynne Tybor, Jon Utinans, Sylvia Vaughan.

Successful program

The D.A.R.E. program had a successful run in the sixth grade class at Grass Lake School thanks to Officer Jim Foerster of the Antioch police Dept., the enthusiasm of the students, and the cooperation of the school. At the end of the seventh-week program there was an assembly held at the school. Fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students were present at the assembly. On hand to congratulate the students for successful participation in the program were Officer Jim Foerster, Police Chief Chuck Miller, Village Trustee Mabel Lou Webber, Dick Jorgenson of the Antioch Drug and Alcohol Task Force and Principal, Raymond Liss. Students were asked to write a short essay titled "Taking a Stand" stating what they learned from the D.A.R.E. Program. Officer Foerster then had the task picking the winning essay. However, his job was not easy as all of the students did a fine job on their compositions. Eventually he was able to narrow it down to two winning essays. The two winners were presented a medal from officer Foerster and a Task Force tee shirt from Dick Jorgenson.

The winners were Brigitte Leonard and Teri Mozal. Both of them did an excellent job on writing essays and equally as excellent job reciting their essays at the assembly. All of the sixth grade students received a D.A.R.E. tee shirt and a certificate indicating participation in the program. In my opinion this program had such a positive effect on the students due to the caring, enthusiastic way in which Officer Foerster presented the material. He really got to know the children as individuals and vice versa. He would often tell them how he felt about things when he was their age. He let them know he cared and understood what they were feeling and facing.

Afterwards I talked with Mabel Lou Weber and her pride in Officer Foerster was quite obvious. She definitely agreed, while the D.A.R.E. Program has the potential to help our children make better choices, Officer Foerster's positive presentation of the material adds to this potential. Thanks, Officer Foerster, for caring! The children need that more than anything.

New addition
On Thursday, Feb. 13, little Alyssa Casey's grandmother brought her up to Camp Crayon. It was the day of our Valentine party.

Hometown Goodies

Alyssa proceeded to hand me four Hershey candy bars for each of the staff members. I assumed it was a Valentine treat. Suddenly I realized Alyssa and her grandmother were waiting for a response. I turned the candy over and on the back was a birth announcement telling of the wonderful addition to their family. On February 12 (Lincoln's birthday), at 3:03 a.m., little Alyssa and her seven-year old sister, Shawna, were given a new little brother as a Valentine gift from mom and dad. Brennan Patrick Casey weighed in at 8 pounds 9 ounces, and was 21 1/2 inches long. Tom and Mary Ellen Casey are very happy over the birth of their son as this rounds out their beautiful family very nicely. Congratulations to you all and I know that future football player is definitely in good hands.

Special assignment

As Miss Marie of the Camp Crayon Program told the children of the official ground hog day and what it meant, she instructed the children to no. 1 watch the ground hog on the news and no. 2 upon return to camp tell her or one of us what they learned. She added a little plastic game watch as an added incentive to carrying out this simple assignment. All children approached her regarding this she quilled them. She asked little Lauren Kluth what she remembered seeing, Lauren said "I watched the beaver on T.V. and he saw his shadow". Little Cody Kidwell didn't remember at first. He said he saw the Jack-a-Lope on T.V. and eventually talked of Mr. Ground Hog. After receiving his watch, little Bobby Klein informed Miss Marie that he didn't like the color.

She said she would wear it if he didn't like it. Little Bradley Lindstrom quickly said if Bobby doesn't want the watch he would take it for his father. Bradely felt that when daddy saw Bradley and Eddie's watch he would definitely want one. Miss Marie asked if daddy Lindstrom had watched the ground hog. Bradely said no, but indicated he knew all about it because Bradely and Eddie filled him on. The staff agreed that daddy should also receive a watch and sent an extra one home for him. Last but not least, little Savana Soder made her family come in from snowmobiling in order to watch the ground hog on T.V. The next day momma Soder had to phone the camp from their Northern vacation to tell Miss Marie that Savana watched the ground hog and he saw his shadow. Naturally Miss Marie gave Savana a watch when she returned from the family snowmobile outing.

Once again, out of the month of babes. Incidentally, the Soder family would like to thank Miss Marie for planning that assignment in conjunction with their snowmobiling outing. nothing like rushing back from the woods to watch a ground hog and his shadow!

Com Ed opponents plan village battle

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

A standing-room only crowd was promised for next week's Lake Villa village board meeting.

That was before mayor and trustees agreed to remove a key item from the agenda for consideration at a Wednesday, March 25 meeting. Mayor Joyce Frayer said she made the decision for political reasons.

Now, they will throng to that meeting.

Making up the crowd will be residents of West Miltmore, Lake Villa and Loon Lake opposed to a 138,000-volt transmission line through those areas. They have been organized since last summer as Power and Citizens Together to oppose the $1.5 million project.

One of the items on the agenda is approval of a conditional use permit for any extraordinary project proposed by the utility.

That deal was struck last month after several months of negotiation between the village and utility.

As proposed, the utility will construct a new, higher voltage power transmission line from Rte. 83/Rollins Rd. to a new substation on the west shore of Loon Lake about one-quarter mile from Rte. 173. About one-half mile will be buried through the center of Lake Villa.

The compromise was struck after several months of bargaining, a review of three alternatives and Commonwealth Edison's insistence on keeping the route it originally planned. Approval will be sought from the Illinois Commerce Commission later this year for construction in 1993. Crawford said approval was almost certain, which is why the utility is now building the Loon Lake substation.

At a March 3 meeting of PACT in Lindenhurst it was learned there will actually be three lines on one pole—two 138,000-volt lines and a 34,000-volt line it is replacing.

Mary O'Toole, supervisor of air quality for Commonwealth Edison Co., said the three lines will actually work to counteract the effects of an electromagnetic field surrounding each pair of lines. It is EMF and its unknown affect on the health of individuals that has PACT concerned. Members cite everything from cancer to birth deformities plus deteriorated property values and the aesthetics of the new line.

Tests she and Ron Crawford, conducted last week in Lake Villa, show the EMF drops off rapidly the further away from the power line.

With the metal 30-foot high poles on a 25-foot right of way, mostly along with Wisconsin Central Railroad, she and Crawford said residents have nothing to fear. There will be a 600-foot span between poles.

The standing room only crowd of 150-plus persons said they do not want the line under any circumstances. Instead, they suggested it to be placed along Rte. 45 to the west. Crawford said there would be a problem obtaining the necessary easements from property owners.

At the meeting, State Rep. John Matijevich (D-North Chicago) said he would reintroduce a bill calling for a two-year moratorium on high-voltage transmission lines. This will allow time for a study of the affects of EMF. He also asked for public hearings on the construction of high-voltage transmission lines. "What Commonwealth Edison is doing here is the height of irresponsibility," he said. Matijevich did not give his moratorium proposal much hope for approval by his colleagues in Springfield. Nevertheless, his gesture brought a round of applause.

Matijevich urged PACT to keep the pressure on the Lake Villa village board, the utility and the village of Antioch. Antioch last year annexed the property on which the new substation is being constructed.

The state representative also urged PACT members to obtain the telephone number of Com Ed Chairman James O'Connor and complain to him.

County Board member Suzi Schmidt said "This is not a done deal as far as I am concerned. I don't want to see these lines going through our township unless there is a buffer zone." She suggested exploring an alternative route used for a gas transmission line through Forest Preserve property south of Lake Villa.

Lake Villa's okay of line 'done deal'

"It's a done deal unless someone comes up with a better idea," said Lake Villa Mayor Joyce Frayer about pending approval of a new high-voltage transmission line through the village.

Preliminary approval was given last month by the Lake Villa Plan Comm. and village board for approval of a special use permit to be issued Commonwealth Edison Co.

This came after several months of negotiation with Com Ed and legal bills of $2,000 by the village. "We just couldn't afford to go on legally any more," the mayor said.

"If someone can come up with a new route it may be the answer that satisfies everyone," she said of a suggestion that Forest Preserve property be used south of Lake Villa. "When this came up before Suzi Schmidt (County Board member) said it couldn't be done. Now, there seems to be a change of heart.

"I don't want to see this become an election issue," Frayer said about a difference of opinion that has developed between two candidates in Dist. 3 for the County Board. Schmidt is working with Power and Citizens Together (PACT) to fight the project.

Barbara Oilschlager of Lake Villa, who is supported in the election by Frayer, sees approval as a "done deal."

To prevent politics from having a role in the decision, part of the agenda involving Com Ed is being moved two weeks to Wednesday, March 25. This will be after the primary election on Tuesday, March 17.

"This matter is too important to mix with politics," Frayer said. "It has now become a political issue. It won't hurt to wait two more weeks."

Frayer said PACT members should blame Antioch for annexing the substation site. Schmidt blames Antioch Twp. Supv. James Fields for not being more sympathetic to PACT. He has washed his hands of the controversy since its annexation by Lake Villa.

"Contact your mayor, County Board members and state reps," said Judy Martini, who is opposing Field in the March 17 primary. "That's why they were elected."

State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa) also came in for his share of criticism at a March 2 meeting of PACT in Lindenhurst. Schmidt criticized him for not attending the meeting of 150-plus persons, not introducing state legislation to stop or delay the project not doing much else to help angry residents. "He won't do anything. He hasn't done anything," Schmidt said of Churchill. "He hates to make a decision."

Those at the meeting were urged to notice which of their elected officials were in attendance and "remember" that on election day.

Fire amendment

when their restaurant licences come due.

"The cost of this could be devastating," said Ted Urbaitis, owner of Fisherman's Dream restaurant. "I might have to lock the doors and leave the community."

Other concerned parties include the Antioch Moose Lodge, a private organization that has been here for some 50 years.

"We will comply with the ordinance but we really don't know how we will pay for it," said Denis Dingsdale, head of the Antioch Moose chapter.

According to Shannon, the cost of a monitoring system would be a one-time installment and hook up fee of about $1,200 and a monthly fee of $30 to $35.

"I don't want to see any businesses fail," said Shannon. "We can work with a business if they have a firm acceptable installation date of the system."

Briefs

New trees passed

The Village of Antioch passed the tree planting plan of Windmill Creek Subdivision at the March 2 meeting.

The plan calls for the planting of one tree for every 50 feet of street property in the subdivision.

This plan is in accordance with a local ordinance for the number of beautification trees in new subdivisions.

Just say yes?

The Antioch Village Board agreed to support the grade school referendum on an individual basis despite their disagreements on how formally they could do so.

The board had earlier rejected a proposed statement, 4 to 3, that would have given the a written endorsement of approval for the grade school referendum.

The referendum, to be voted on March 17, would increase the property tax by $14 for just the 1992 tax year, to be paid by the taxpayer in 1993.

Nothing beats a ...

The Antioch Village Board will vote on an ordinance that would eliminate the advertisement of beer or wine externally or in the windows of a "H" class liquor licence holder.

No exterior advertising would eliminate the use of billboards, signs or any type of outdoor advertising.

This would include use of internal signs in windows that face the outside of the establishment.

An "H" class liquor licence is for the sale of beer and wine only from 11 am to 11 pm. It is for establishments that have a capacity of 75 or more and serve a full menu at lunch and dinner.

County Board candidates reviewed

March 17: referendum on how land to be used

All of the election commotion is on the Republican side in the Tuesday, March 17, primary, particularly over nominations for the 23 new single member County Board districts. Only two Democratic nominations for County Board seats are being contested.

Sifting through all the blustery campaign rhetoric, one question remains: how to husband the county's dwindling supply of open space? Many other public questions are off-shoots of the basic question about land use---taxation, transportation gridlock, water needs, adequate sanitation to serve a growing population, protection of the environment, drainage problems, zoning, law enforcement, planning, and, most accurately, proper and fair real estate taxation as the basis of funding public education.

That's why decisions made by County Board members are so critical. The direction County Board representatives take Lake County affect our daily lives---to the core.

Four years ago, open space advocates won a majority on the County Board, approaching public land acquisition with a zeal that put up road blocks to growth and development, and overrode individual rights in some cases. Two years ago, pro-development activists won a majority on the County Board in a backlash vote and proceeded to dismantle plans for public land acquisition designations of the Forest Preserve Dist. The conflict between the viewpoints remains unresolved. Thus, March 17, looms as a referendum on land use and how Lake County will be shaped for the 1990's.

Democratic

Dist. 12---Waukegan's south side. The Lake County Board lost necessary balance, leadership and keen insight when John L. Balen went into self-imposed retirement several years ago. Balen, a union leader, has valuable experience in representative government that is badly needed today. He should be returned to a platform he knows and where he has served well in the past. His opponent is Angelo D. Kyle, an incumbent, who has been ineffective.

Republican

Dist. 1---Antioch Township. Incumbent Rep. James "Jim" Fields, who also serves as township supervisor, has been on the ballot so many times and won so many elections he looks at public office as guaranteed employment. His lackluster voting record and "go along" style underscore a reluctance to face up to compelling issues. Judy L. Martini, a real estate sales representative, who won a seat on the Water Management Agency last year, provides voters with a fresh choice and a willingness to help solve the problems brought on by rampant growth and development such as solid waste disposal and environmental needs. Martini has displayed energy and an understanding of public issues. This is the time for a change and new representation.

Dist. 2---Newport Township. A clash of incumbents between Robert Neal of Wadsworth and Eleanor S. Rostron of Zion. Neal thrives on controversy, but he also listens and takes stands. Rostron tends to focus on county-wide issues only if they impact on her area. We give the nod to Neal for his stand-up style and vigor.

Dist. 3---Lake Villa Township. Incumbent Rep. Suzi Schmidt has established a record of independence and a willingness to challenge leadership bent on transforming the county into ribbons of asphalt lined by strip malls and condos. Schmidt has proved to be honest, hardworking and responsible, a valuable supporter of the Forest Preserve system and a keen hand at solving environmental problems. Schmidt is challenged by Barbara D. Oilschlager, an employee of the county vocational education system and a trustee of the College of Lake County, and James Creighton Mitchell Jr., who has prior board service through appointment, but has never won in his own right. Schmidt deserves to be retained in office.

Lakeland Newspaper editors speak out on candidates and campaigns where they are thoroughly familiar or there are compelling reasons to comment. In keeping with long standing policy, we do not make endorsements in every ballot position. This week the campaigns for Lake County Board have been examined. Next week we will look at county, state and national races.

Dist. 3---Warren Township. Township supervisor and County Board Chairman Robert Depke, who has been in the political limelight for more than 25 years, is getting one of his rare challenges from Atty. Richard Behr of Gurnee. Growth and development are the issues. So is Depke's clout. He engineered his own County Board district to assure his re-election. Depke has let himself become bigger than his office. While Behr may be willing, he is unknown and untested. Neither rate a clear-cut nod.

Dist. 5---Wauconda and Grant townships. With four first-time County Board aspirants running, this race shapes up as a proving ground for new issue-orientated campaigning or politics as usual. If the latter is the case, Edward Fojtik of Ingleside, backed by Fox Lake leaders, probably has an edge. Fojtik has confined himself to non-controversial campaigning. Howard Bieze of rural Wauconda Township has spoken out about property rights and some environmental causes, but leaves doubt where he stands on development. Sander Sundberg and Brad Muse have similar views on growth and curbing real estate taxes, although Sundberg has offered greater detail about his views. Either Bieze or Sundberg will stand up to special interests dominating the board.

Dist. 6---Round Lake and Highland Lake. Incumbent Rep. Larry Leafblad has displayed backbone in challenging pro-development forces threatening the county's quality of life, yet he understands that balance is essential to maintaining a sound economy and protecting health and safety. Challengers Don Newby and William "Bill" Beadle haven't indicated the potential for leadership displayed by Leafblad who has earned reelection.

Dist. 8---Northern parts of Waukegan Township. Charles Isely III has a formidable track record in areas where the County Board sorely needs leadership---helping small business, expansion of tourism and fostering economic growth. We give him the nod over Charles Willms and James P. "Jim" Stanczak.

Dist. 10---Fremont Township. Retired Mundelein Mayor Colin McRae was challenged in the municipal election several years ago by Mundelein resident Don Johnson. This is a re-match. In his two years on the County Board, McRae has done an about face from his mayoral years as an advocate of responsible growth to become cozy with developers and Realtors. McRae has disappointed those who thought they knew him. Neither he nor Johnson rate endorsement.

Dist. 11---Grayslake and Wildwood. Richard "Dick" Raftis of Wildwood presents a one-dimensioned candidacy to promulgate the pro-development aims of his employer, the Lake County Farm Bureau. We prefer Raymond L. Lacroix of Grayslake who seems to understand the relationship between unbridled growth and other major headaches facing the county---and offers sensible ideas on how to deal with these problems.

Dist. 13---Libertyville Township. Libertyville dentist and trustee, John Schullien envisions a broader role for himself. A successful businessman who has been able to balance the role of public service, he has few detractors. Challenger Gladys Roper has no credentials, no record of public service and no platform to set her apart from any other office seeker. Schullien deserves to test new political waters.

Dist. 15---South third of Libertyville Township. Only one will emerge from a field that includes incumbents James Dolan and Carol Calabresa plus one-time County Board member F.T. "Mike" Graham. Graham's last comeback bid for the high school board failed. This campaign has the same markings. Voters have a difficult choice in Calabresa with her passion for open space and Dolan, who knows his County Board finances as vice chairman of that committee. Wouldn't it be nice to elect both?

Dist. 17---Cuba Township(Barrington) and part of Ela Township. We're concerned that the pro-development sympathies of Mark H. Beaubien Jr. and Wayne F. Miller will add impetus to the present majority that has been ignoring the link between uncontrolled growth and high taxes, plus threats to the environment and a country-like lifestyle. Incumbent Rep. C. Richard Anderson capably led public land acquisition efforts as former Forest Preserve president. Dr. Paul M. Chung offers a middle ground position on open space and the environment. Donald R. Potter is the fifth challenger in the most crowded field of candidates. Anderson, based on his record and experience, is preferred.

Dist. 18---Prairie View, Vernon Hills, Hawthorn Woods. Only one candidate will win the four-way race between Florence Emling, Davida Terry, Pam Newton and Michael Sullivan. Emling served two years on the Vernon Twp. board, but that does not make her qualified. Newton has seven years as a Vernon Hills trustee, where she has helped nurture a proud village. She fills that role best. Sullivan is too busy with his own sales business to serve. Terry has demonstrated a concern for saving her part of Lake County from the developers and Realtors. She has demonstrated her passion by keeping instead of killing deer in the Ryerson Forest Preserve. Her election will give this part of the county a real "voice." Terry isn't a "yes" person and won't take "no" for an answer. She's the brightest of this year's political crop.

Dist. 19---Ela Township. Incumbent Robert Grever won election two years ago on his record of outstanding service as Ela Twp. supervisor. In trying to wear too many hats he has become a disappointment. He seems better suited to local government than the fast-paced, sometimes rough and tumble tempo of the County Board. Former board member Bruce Hansen has matured considerably since his loss two years ago. He's a credit to the classroom where he teaches. But it's no endorsement in this one.

Dist. 21---Lincolnshire. Lee Forbes is a lawyer who wants to advance his career, possibly politically. Martha Marks is an environmentalist who writes about the subject for magazines, textbooks and other media. If elected her sincere concern for the public's well being will serve her district well.

Skoien picked wrong target for first shot

by BILL SCHROEDER

Gary Skoien is having the time of his life yanking the chain of Congressman Philip M. Crane. Pretty heady stuff for a young politician whose major problems in life were getting his driver's license and prom dates when the one-time Presidential candidate first was elected to Congress more than two decades ago.

Skoien, making his first race for public office, is living up to his reputation as an articulate campaigner with a bright future. But can he knock off a polished pro like Phil Crane? Conventional Wisdom (good old C.W.) says Skoien is a long shot. Good call, C.W. As they say in politics, lightning can always strike.

The challenger has been making plenty of noise about things like Crane's multiple residences, his frequent junketing, a diminished "work ethic," unemployment and their differing views on abortion. With few exceptions, Skoien's attacks amount to non-issues.

"I've got Phil nervous," acknowledged the boyish looking Skoien, who is employed as a top executive with an international real estate development firm headquartered in Chicago. Skoien, 37, entered private business after leaving a top level post in the administration of Gov. Jim Thompson where he last served as executive director of the Illinois Capital Development Board. "I had to finish Illinois Center and I'm proud of the job I did."

Even in the face of jabs like Skoien's reference to him as a "tenured visiting professor," the popular Congressman has kept his cool. Crane's most severe criticism of his young opponent has been to characterize him as a Thompson-type "tax-and-spend Republican." Phil charitably jokes, "If Gary wants to go to Congress, why didn't he run against some Democrat we all would like to get out of office?"

Despite Skoien's wide-ranging broadsides, the March 17 Republican referendum on Crane's incumbency likely will turn on his long-standing opposition to federal funding of abortion procedures, his well known brand of fiscal conservatism, his experience and his popularity with Republicans in the redrawn 8th Congressional Dist. running from Gurnee to Schaumburg. Term limitation may be gaining voter favor, but the concept doesn't have enough of a foothold yet to spell the retirement of a well liked congressman who once was a serious contender for the White House.

So give Gary Skoien A for effort and a pat on the back. Not this time, young fellow!

Candidates pay for your vote

GOP's $9,000 PARTY

Republican literature night was earlier this week. Of the 108 candidates on the March ballot, 81 paid anywhere from $100 to $250-plus to participate. That's $100 for County Board candidates, $250 for state rep.

For this they got a table and a chance for precinct committeemen from across the county to pick up their flyers, handouts, etc. But that doesn't assure any of it will get delivered. A letter from the party "encourages" committeemen to distribute material for everyone participating in literature night.

Committeemen also picked up sample ballots. Candidates endorsed by the party have their name in big, bold type. Others on the ballot were in plain type.

"Why should I pay $100 to go attend a meeting where I'm probably not wanted and ask someone to distribute my literature alongside a ballot that has my opponent's name bigger than mine?" one candidate asked.

Valery Gallagher in the Libertyville GOP office said the fee for attending literature night covers the plastic bags for the literature and printing of ballots. On yes, there was the room at the Gurnee Holiday Inn. But $9,000-plus?

One man refused to pay this assessment a year ago November. He didn't do it elsewhere in his statewide bid and wasn't going to start in Lake County. He got his literature out, anyhow. And he was elected. His name? Gov. Jim Edgar.

CLASS ACT

Little Abner would have been proud. Sadie Hawkins night in Libertyville Feb. 29 drew a crowd of 300 plus.

It was a fund raiser for Ralph Swank, who is running for state rep in the new 61st Dist.

For $15 per person those attending sipped champagne from a glass with a strawberry, got to see host Virginia Woods' bedroom and, of course, meet Swank.

There was such a crowd and so many cars a shuttle bus was used for the neighborhood event.

RACE GETS ROUGH

The race for state rep. in the new 61st Dist. (Libertyville, Warren and part of Waukegan townships) is starting to get rough. It's almost as nasty as the one in the 52nd Dist. between Al Salvi and Nancy Masterson.

In the 61st it's Ralph Swank vs. Andrea Moore.

In her quest for new horizons, Moore says "taxes are getting out of line...voters need a representative who will handle their money well."

What does Swank say about that?

'Shortly after taking over as Forest Preserve president, Moore dismissed the old law firm which was charging $85 per hour and hired a new one at $190 per hour. Later, she brought the old firm back to handle a special project at $125 per hour.'

Moore is also the one who said:

"...cooperation is a key to making government work....we need a representative who works well with colleagues."

Swank's reply?

"When she took office as Forest Preserve president, Moore demanded the resignation of Jerry Soesbe, director of the district for over 20 years. ....other Forest Preserve members, including the vice president, said she (Moore) never talked to them about it. She hired a new director at a 54 percent increase in salary."

"Can you afford more Moore promises?" the flyer asks.

HEALTHY CAMPAIGN

Venerable F.T. "Mike" Graham is serious about getting back into politics.

He is running for his old seat on the County Board in Dist. 15. It's not a pretty race. Opponents are one-time protegee Carol Calabresa and sometime adversary James Dolan. Both are County Board incumbents.

Graham is working like he never worked before. At Christmas time he walked the 112 miles of Dist. 15 passing out a red flyer. He did it twice again in January, one more time in February and will complete his fourth pass just before the primary. That's 448 total miles.

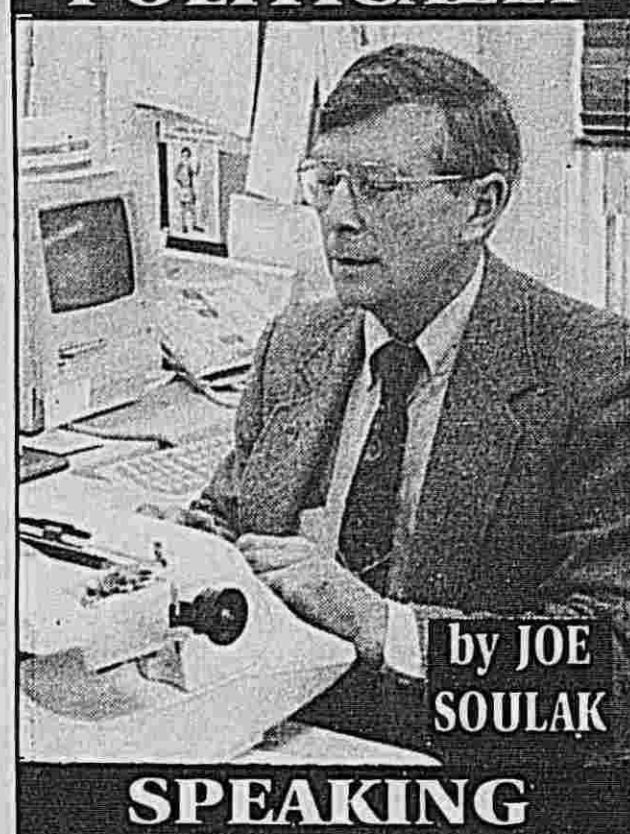

"It takes me 15 days on foot and one day in the car," Graham said of each round.

The one-time Libertyville Twp. political figure said he's doing it for his health—physical and political.

Dubious tax honor

Editor:

County Chairman Robert Depke wants the five per cent tax cap exempted in Lake County. I think Depke with Jim Fields and the rest of Depke's puppets have gone high enough.

Lake County pays more taxes than any county in the state, a honor I don't appreciate.

Now Depke and his puppets want a four cent gasoline tax. There again the working man gets short-changed.

I would suggest putting a toll gate at Gurnee Mills and the gates of the new subdivision in Gurnee. Depke and the town of Gurnee get all the sales tax and property tax. Why should we make the roads better?

Let's get out and vote to lose that honor in Lake County of being the highest taxpayer in the state.

Frank Walsh Sr.
Antioch

GOP 'in' too long

Editor:

What is frightening is when a political party builds its foundation on big bucks from Realtors working for the "highest dollar"; voracious developers fighting to lay waste all within their sight in the name of "progress" (to their banks); and land investors who are the bane of this county in their single-minded determination to get the highest return for their investments, no matter what the impact to the region.

Couple that with the fact the Republican Party is really controlled by a very few carefully chosen people willing to carry out the agenda of the party heavies—we in Lake County have a problem.

This party has called the shots for too long. For the sake of Lake County, we must bring back the two-party system to give balance to county government. Look beyond the "in" party; investigate alternatives. Return the checks and balances that should be in all governing bodies, to keep them true to their constituents—uncorrupted by money and special interests.

Get those outsiders out of our county government.

Phyllis Nicolopoulos
Wauconda

Porter backs controls

Editor:

If it ain't broke, don't fix it. That's what I found myself saying when I recently heard that Rep. John Porter was being challenged in the Republican primary on March 17. Why he's being challenged is beyond me.

As a concerned voter, I keep track of how my elected representatives keep watch over my tax dollars. I believe that you don't just spend money left and right. Rep. Porter believes in controlling government spending and taxes. He has proven this time and again over the last decade.

While this country is trying to find its way out of the current economic recession, it's refreshing to know that my representative is and will be part of the solution. Porter's opposition to big government spending is just the kind of restraint this country needs right now.

Libertyville

Toxic danger untested

Editor:

Michael Kuhn, solid waste specialist of the Lake County Div. of Environmental health, was shown that large areas of grass and weeds are not growing where toxic chemicals were dumped the past two or three years near Eagle Creek running through the Village of Lake Villa, the township, my land and into Long Lake.

I was told that it doesn't warrant testing and costs too much money. Kuhn does not know what it is. I am serious about this matter and you should be, too.

Frank R. Grenus
Lake Villa

Incineration expensive

Editor:

Judy Martini, candidate for Lake County Board's Dist. 1, accused of using incineration scare tactics, explained that she does not support incineration as a means of handling waste because of the adverse effects on the environment and dangers to the nearby population. I commend Ms. Martini for informing the public truthfully about some of the negative impacts of incineration.

Another problem with this method of handling waste, however, is the exorbitant expense involved. Incineration facilities cost hundreds of millions of dollars to build and operate especially if state of the art filtration and scrubbing devices are installed, and still not all the toxins can be filtered out. For example, Huntington, New York which has an incinerator, estimated that it costs them $25 a ton to recycle, $40 a ton to landfill and $15 a ton to incinerate.

More enlightening is that the process of incineration leaves 25 percent of the original garbage in the form of ash, the most toxic result from the process. The cost of disposing of this byproduct, containing toxic heavy metals, is also expensive. It is mos often landfilled, but there are good reasons to have it tested as a hazardous waste.

In November of 1991 the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago ruled that municipal waste incineration ash is considered hazardous waste and requires testing in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. If indeed there was nothing wrong with the technology, such a decision would not have been made by one of the highest courts.

Incineration is a short term and costly solution to a long term problem. Each of us needs to generate less garbage. We need to buy things that last, not throwaways, and encourage less packaging. We know we must still have landfills, which are not safe either, whether or not we have an incinerator. All of Lake County should recycle as much as we can so that we can save money, landfill space and the long term costs to our environment and our children's futures.

Access is health care key

Editor:

I'm sure everyone agrees that our health care system provides the best quality medical care in the world. Quality is not why many people want to see the systems changed. They want it changed because not everyone has access to health care. Having the best quality care in the world does us no good if only the people who can afford that care receive it. One might feel that the president believes that as long as the quality of our health care is No. 1 in the world, the poor in this country can just stay sick. Quality is important, but access is vital.

President Bush's State of the Union speech was the most political I have ever heard. I also felt that Mr. Bush was cavalier and arrogant in his approach during the speech. ## Precious possession

Editor:

The right to vote is one of our most precious and cherished possessions. With it we can control our own destiny. Without it, we travel to the road to disaster.

So come March 17, to show our appreciation for the privilege we have to vote and for those community volunteers, let us all go to the polls in force and vote so that we can all become part of that destiny.

Misplaced concern

Editor:

In reference to Ms. Cameron's criticism of those of us who wear furs, might not her concern be more appropriately directed to the annual slaughter of millions of unborn babies?

Perhaps getting one's priorities in order should be uppermost. Sad, but true, the ignorance of some is more than adequately compensated for by stupidity.

'Baby talk' decried

Editor:

Al Salvi, running for state representative, is so fresh, so real, and down-to-earth, he is taking this race so serious. Salvi talked about education and property taxes. He told us how his opponent has people tearing down his signs. How babyish! We want to hear th issues; not petty baby talk.

Forget the 'dumb' stuff

Editor:

Why are the politicians always digging up the past? The dumb stuff. We all make mistakes. They should stay on the problems, not each other's throats.

Why are our kids and schools having trouble? Half the parents don't chip in or they're too money hungry and don't let the schools and teachers help. I donate hours to the school. I always feel the teacher has a closer relationship to understanding.

I can't understand why parents won't help to work and save our communities.

Signs, money not issue

Editor:

It is worthy of comment when a woman of Nancy Smith's unquestioned integrity and honesty decides to seek public office as a candidate in the 52nd Dist. of the Illinois General Assembly.

As a past Lake County Board member and Forest Dist. commissioner, I have had the opportunity to work with Mrs. Smith. Her reputation for fairness and her prove commitment to lofty principals became apparent to me at this time.

I urge the residents of the newly formed 52nd Dist. to give Mrs. Smith's candidacy most serious consideration March 17. This campaign should not go to the one that puts up the most signs or spends the most money, but rather to the candidate best qualified.

Defense spending

Editor:

According to the Children's Defense Fund, every day in America: 6,849 children are reported abused or neglected; 2,756 teens become pregnant; 2,685 babies are born into poverty; 2,250 students ages 16 to 24 drop out each school day; 107 babies die before their first birthday; and two children younger than five are murdered.

Why then do we continue to spend our limited national resources on defense?

Watershed ordinance workshops offered by county commission

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County Stormwater Management Commission will hold a series of workshops in March and April to familiarize people with the county's new watershed development ordinance.

The ordinance, which has been the focus of controversy among politicians and special interest groups, was approved Feb. 18 by the Lake County Board. The Commission plans to empower all municipalities adopting the ordinance with the ability to issue permits for development. The Army Corps of Engineers controls the process, but is negotiating with the commission to determine what part of its authority it will relinquish to the SMC.

"We're trying to mesh our permitting authorities so that administratively we're not duplicating services. The Corps will always have some level of decision-making authority concerning wetlands," said Ward Miller, executive director of the Stormwater Management Commission.

The workshops are aimed at developers, consulting engineers and Lake County municipalities and will concentrate on administration of the watershed ordinance, including the community certification process, review performance standards, and application requirements.

The free, half-day meetings are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to noon March 19 and 24 and April 2 in room C002 at College of Lake County in Grayslake. Copies of the ordinance as well as a summary of the document are available in advance by calling the SMC at 918-5260 or may be obtained at the workshop.

Starting in June, all new development not specifically exempt from compliance with the ordinance will require a watershed development permit. After nearly 10 years of work, standards have been set for management of stormwater runoff, stormwater facility maintenance, erosion control, water quality, wetlands and floodplain areas. The ordinance is designed to stop existing flooding and water quality from getting worse and prevent new development from creating more problems.

Upon certification by the SMC, area municipalities apply the ordinance within their jurisdiction. The SMC will enforce the ordinance in unincorporated Lake County.

Service price tag $12,000 for new home: candidate

by BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

Slowing growth is the fastest way of providing relief for beleaguered Lake County taxpayers.

That's the opinion of Brad Muse, County Board candidate in the March 17 primary and a long-time observer of how taxes mushroom when new growth spurs demands for more public services.

Muse said the price tag for increased services accompanying a new single family residence is about $12,000.

"The solution to this problem sees elementary," remarked Muse, who is retired from a career in welding that ranged from private industry to serving as an instructor at Lake County Area Vocational Center and McHenry High School.

"Slow growth and get financial relief up front in the form of impact fees or the burden will be primarily born by existing homeowners," explained Muse, who is one of four contestants for a Republican nomination from Dist. 5 in west Lake County.

If elected, Muse said he will support implementation of a county impact fee ordinance.

Muse characterized his opponents--- Edward Fotjik, Howard Bieze and Sander Sundberg---as Johnny-come-latelies. "For years I've been interested, concerned and involved with public issues I've been to the meetings, indirect contact with the decision makers, contributing suggestions, working frequently behind the scenes to improve the quality of life and environment in Lake County and in northern Illinois. Where have my opponents been?"

On other pressing county issues, Muse said he supports continued landfilling because of its economy and opposes a four cent county tax for highway expansion.

With individual homework and fact finding, county officials can get educated on solid waste disposal themselves without spending $500,000 as is currently being done, Muse asserted.

Brad Muse

Muse has worked on a host of county campaigns and is a four-time delegate to the state GOP convention. He has been endorsed by Tax Accountability '92 and supports the Tax Freedom Act, which would roll back taxes to 1988 levels.

Pet Sitters leashes local market on critter-sitting

by ELLEN RUTLIN
Lakeland Newspapers

Sandy Wisniewski collared a unique customer demand by unleashing a little creativity.

With a pooper-scooper in one hand, a leash in the other and an innate love of animals, Wisniewski ventured forth as an entrepreneur in pet-sitting. Her business, Pet Sitters of America, caters to customers who love their pets as their children and treat one as equally as the other.

If Bobby gets a baby sitter, so does Bowser.

"I just thought of the idea when a neighbor went out of town and I took care of their cats," Wisniewski said. "When they paid me I thought, this is a phenomenal idea for a business. It all started from there."

People who have pets don't like to kennel them, she thought. Why not have them stay at home? Why not have someone come to their home and care for the pets? For that matter the pet sitter could take in the mail and water the plants?

"If people love their pets as much as I love mine, this idea could work," she said.

An advertisement in a local newspaper boomed business almost immediately. Since its establishment in 1987, Pet Sitters has grown continuously gathering a steady number of clientele. In 1991, the business grossed $78,000.

"It's taken a lot of dedication, hard, hard work and a goal," Wisniewski said.

Pet Sitters offers customers and all types of pets a variety of services including daily dog walking, dog run clean up, overnight care of animals, transportation to and from the vet or groomer, advice in animal care and training, care of house plants and home security during long absences of the customer.

Pet Sitters employs 16 sitters who are available on holidays also, for a slightly higher fee. The business services nearly 50 villages in the northern suburbs.

Though the job is rewarding for pet lovers, working with animals raises some spur-of-the-moment drawbacks with house breaking accidents, pet illnesses and other unexpectancies. But like caring for a child, the Pet Sitters lovingly handle any problem an animal may have.

The philosophy behind in-home pet care involves the emotional and physical health of the animal.

According to Wisniewski, many transmittable diseases are passed from one animal to another in areas where many pets are kept, such as a kennel. The animals could also become very stressed in unusual environments.

And what do Wisniewski's customers think of the service?

In a Pet Sitter newsletter sent to local businesses, veterinarians, groomers and customers, Wisniewski relays pet care tips, business information and reactions from clients about her service.

"I was very pleased," said a client in Highland Park. "I'm sorry I didn't know about you sooner."

Another writes, "Thank you for providing the absolute best (superb) pet service over the years."

In choosing her sitters, Wisniewski conducts thorough interviews and reference checks of each applicant. To ensure the safety of the homes and pets of the clients, the clients must sign a contract which outlines the services to be provided at their home by a pet sitter.

Clients and their pets meet with the sitter before the service is given to ensure all parties are comfortable with each other.

Each week a pet sitter makes nearly 60 calls to homes to care for pets.

"You have to have a love of animals to do this," she said.

Wisniewski cares for two dogs, three cats and three birds of her own while juggling the responsibilities of being a wife, mother and entrepreneur.

But despite a busy schedule, Wisniewski is not out-ruling the possibility of business growth by packaging her idea for use by others.

"We're putting a package and training program together for prospective entrepreneurs who would like to start their own similar business," she said adding any new businesses would not be operated as franchises but as privately owned businesses.

The Pet Sitters operates out of Wisniewski's Libertyville home and can be reached at 816-4744.

Reasons to review estate plans when moving

by B. MIDDLETON and J. MONTGOMERY

We often send our clients lists of reasons to review and update their current estate plans. Almost all such lists include among the reasons for reviewing your plan a move to another state. Have you ever wondered why?

In our mobile society, people move from state to state—sometimes yearly if the demands of their job dictate the moves. But each time you cross state lines, you also cross jurisdictional lines, and a whole new set of rules may apply to your property and to your wills and trusts.

Property rights differ

In Illinois, for estate planning purposes, the property acquired during a marriage is the separate property of the person in whose name the property is acquired or titled. Many states, including Wisconsin, recognize community property whereby property acquired during the marriage belongs to the "community" so that husband and wife each have an undivided one-half interest in the property.

This difference in property rights can be essential in estate tax avoidance. Indeed the differences are so fundamental that trusts drafted in community property states have completely different grantor and trustee descriptions and investment rights so that these community property laws are not disturbed when the family does its estate planning.

If the old plan violates the new property rules, the old plan may be ignored in dividing the property after death. Isn't it better to update than to have your ideas for distribution disturbed or destroyed?

Rules of execution

Another consequence of this move to a new jurisdiction is that the manner in which the will can or must be witnessed can be dramatically changed. For example, in Illinois, a will can be witnessed and an affidavit or statement attached to the will that makes the will "self-proving".

This means that, if there is a death, the witnesses do not have to appear in court or sign affidavits testifying to the execution of the will. Some states do not recognize self-proving wills, and require that the witnesses be tracked down so that they may appear and testify.

Obviously, a self-proving will is easier (and less expensive) to file than a will for which you provide witnesses in court. Why not change the plan to take advantage of the less costly form of probate?

Ancillary probate

Finally, in making the move, you may have left your old home or other real estate unsold behind you. If you purchase a new home, you will be a real estate owner in two states.

A court in Illinois has no jurisdiction over real estate owned outside of its borders. Orders concerning the real estate in the old state must be entered by its courts.

By not updating your plan to take advantage of trust ownership of all the real estate, you have caused your estate to undergo two (or more) probate proceedings. Why not plan—at the border—to avoid this costly and wasteful mistake?

Editor's note: B. Middleton is a tax partner in the law firm of Nisen & Elliott, and member of The Chicago Estate Planning Counsel, American Assn. of Individual Investors. He is a member of financial experts preparing This Way to Wealth. Questions invited by writing 2203B Lakeside Dr., Bannockburn, IL 60015.

Salutos: something special

Try Salutos Pizza and Pasta Restaurant, where something special is an everyday event.

If you missed Salutos' Italian-style Mardi Gras fete — Martedì Grosso — last week, mark March 19 on your calendar for the special St. Joseph's Day buffet. The buffet will feature the dishes typical of the Italian holiday.

"We'll celebrate in the Italian tradition," said Chef Jerry Reizner.

Co-owners Bob Bode and Brian Scott just celebrated Salutos' one-year anniversary.

"Bob and I would like to thank all our patrons for a great year," Brian said. "We're still making things the same way — from scratch, and we make fresh pasta daily."

Salutos is your guide for gastronomic trips to the various regions of Italy, including Tuscany, Rome, Naples and Sicily — to name just a few.

Each month, Salutos will feature dishes prepared in the style indigenous to a different region.

The region for March is Venice. Some of the special dishes being prepared by Jerry are Risi Bisi (rice and pea soup with ham so thick you eat it with a fork), Cape Cante (baked scallops in their shells) and Fegato Alla Veneziana (Venetian-style liver and onions).

An all-you-can eat lunch buffet has become a big favorite at Salutos every Wednesday and Friday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Each buffet includes pizza, hot entrees, soup, salad and garlic rolls for only $6.95.

Dishes come prepared in a variety of modes, including al forno (baked) and da fuoco (from the fire). One of Reizner's favorites is carne da fuoco, Steak Saluto — morsels of ham and select cheeses, pocketed into a tender breaded filet of beef and sauteed in a house tomato-wine sauce with mushrooms.

Salutos added some new items recently, including appetizers Salutos Sampler (spiedini, stuffed mushrooms and golden calzone) and Donduta Carciofi (diced artichoke hearts in a garlicky mozzarella and parmesan blend melted together to be dipped out onto toast croutons.)

Several new dinners have been added including Parmigiana Trio (veal, eggplant and chicken fried with cheese and special sauce) and Steak Saluto and Rotolo, Tortellini, Petti de Polla Alla Griglia (grilled, marinated chicken breast served with grilled vegetables), Chicken Primavera and Seafood Primavera. New in the sandwich lineup are the Grilled Chicken Sandwich and Mozzarella in Carozza (egg battered sandwiches of mozzarella and ham).

Pizza and seafood lovers should check out the newest pizza creation, Alpine Pizza (Alfredo sauce, shrimp, crab and spinach). Salutos famous Pizza in the Pan comes in 12-inch and 14-inch sizes. For lunch Salutos offers a special 8-inch pizza.

Average lunch prices range from $4.95 to $6.95, while dinner prices average $6.95 to $9.95. Salutos also features a complete bar, and impressive wine list. Party planners should consider Salutos house party plan package, carryout party plan, and catering.

Salutos is located at 7680 W. Grand Ave. in Gurnee. Hours are Tuesdays through Thursdays, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Fridays and Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; and Sundays, 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. For information, call (708)356-6900.

Nice guy...tough roles

Turk Muller

in

'HERO'

with

Dustin Hoffman, Andy Garcia, and Geena Davis

At the top, Turk Muller fraternizes with Anthony Denison, John Polito and John Santucci on the set of NBC's 'Crime Story.' Above, Turk shows his versatility as the giant in the Papal Players' 'Jack and the Beanstalk.'

Turk: tough guy or teddy bear? Whether it's as a Mafia minion in TV's "Crime Story" or a jolly giant in the Papal Players' "Jack and the Beanstalk", Lake Zurich's Terry "Turk" Muller has found a market for his entertaining talents.

Turk is the nickname Muller has carried since his high school football days at St. Rita's on the South Side. The name was reinforced when it was used for Muller's character on "Crime Story."

"Sometimes I think I'm getting too old (43) to have a nickname that goes back to high school," Muller said. "But then someone will say, 'Terry Muller? Who's he? Oh, Turk. Oh, yeah. OK.' I'm known as 'Turk,' and I'm stuck with it."

So, Turk it is.

Turk's still-budding stage and silver-screen career didn't begin until over a decade after he earned an English degree at Loyola. He wrote for a couple of trade magazines before getting into trucking sales.

Then, six years ago, at about the same time he was opening Funny's — a bar in Cicero — he became infected.

"I was doing a little play as kind of a lark and I got the bug, so to speak," Turk recalled.

The play was "Journey To Destiny" at the now-defunct Igloo Theater, a 50-seat room above a video store. Despite the ominous title, the play was more like a cartoon. The cast wore cardboard costumes, and members of the audience were supplied with creme pies, which they could throw at the actors.

Turk, then 37, saw the play and met the cast. One tactless 21-year-old actor said they needed an "old guy" for the play. Turk told him he'd love to be in the play, and he'd help him look for an "old guy" too.

Turk's bar was a success, giving him the opportunity to dabble in his new-found avocation.

It just so happened one of the men at the Igloo Theater worked for the agency hiring extras for "Crime Story."

"He said I'd make a good villain or thug or bad guy," Turk said.

"Crime Story" was a cops-vs.-wise guys series on NBC. The show starred ex-Chicago cop Dennis Farina, and the first season was shot in the city.

Turk landed a job as an extra. His first day on the job wasn't auspicious, however.

"They don't — as a rule — treat extras very well. The first day, I didn't work at all, and I was there for 12 hours."

Armed with some encouragement from his wife Judie, Turk went back the next day. In the first 13 episodes of "Crime Story," Turk appeared in nine shows. In the final four, his role was upgraded.

Playing the bodyguard of Mafioso Phil Bartoli (John Polito), Turk needed a name.

"Polito said, 'We've got to give this guy a name — he's going to be addressing me.'"

Turk offered his real-life nickname, but the production company was hesitant to use it. Co-star by GREG MILLER Anthony Denison offered a sympathetic ear. Turk told Denison his old buddies would really get a kick out of hearing the nickname in the show.

Denison — who played the evil Ray Luca — liked the idea, and Turk got to keep his name.

Thus, Turk's career as a nice guy playing bad guys was born.

His most recent roles are in "Hero" and "The In-Between."

"Hero" stars Dustin Hoffman, Andy Garcia and Geena Davis and will be released in theaters this summer.

"Dustin Hoffman was wonderful," Turk said. "He even signed an autograph for my sons."

Unfortunately, the scenes shot with Turk didn't include the talented Ms. Davis, who's an Oscar nominee for "Thelma and Louise."

"I never get to kiss the girl," Turk lamented. "I might whack her or beat her up. A veteran character actor once said, 'If you're going to be a bad guy, be the best bad guy you can be.'"

"The In-Between," a made-for-cable movie, will premiere on USA April 22. The movie stars Eli Wallach, Martin Landau and Michael Ontkean.

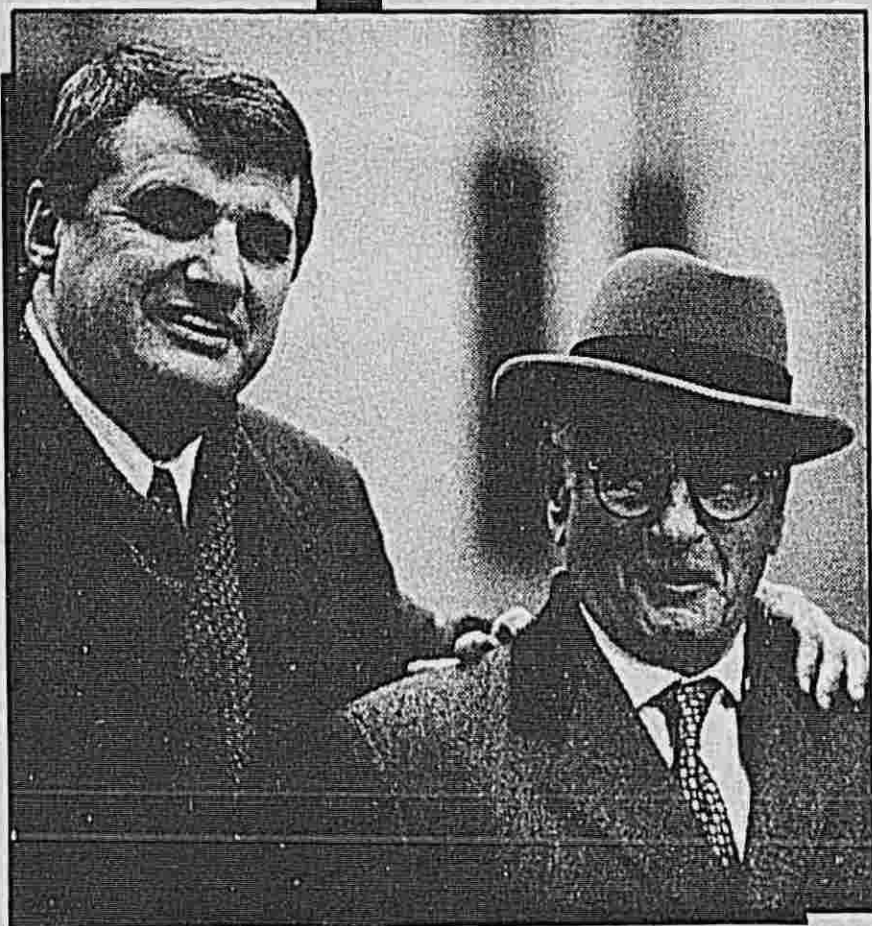

Rubbing elbows with famous veteran performers like Wallach and Landau made Turk forget they were co-workers.

"I was kind of like the little kids who come to see the play ('Jack and the Beanstalk')," Turk confided. "I'd sit there with my eyes open and my mouth open listening to their stories."

Turk will begin work in another movie, "Excessive Force," March 20.

"I'm playing a bad guy again," Turk said. "I think I

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be ready to talk through recent problems. By the weekend, you will get to the bottom of the matter. Celebrations come after a resolution. Meanwhile, you may hear a lot of sidebar comments and whispers. Just know that others are responding to the week's weird vibes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are a powerhouse to deal with from the get-go. Nobody really minds until you and a partner get into a tug-o-war. Careful as you cruise into the weekend, you think everything is okay. You could discover you have pushed too hard, back when you were feeling your oats.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Get used to the roller coaster ride because it's already in motion, and what would be even scarier would be to jump off. Greed, jealousy, etc. (most of Pandora's box), prevail by the weekend. 'Make love not war' needs to be your weekend motto.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Read Gemini for a hint. (It seems you both bought a ticket to the same roller coaster ride, only you're sitting further back.) When you set sail for the weekend, you may only encounter — if you're lucky — a slight swaying into the wind. Do be careful ... not to fall overboard.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You're on a high cycle this week. You do a major juggling act with your personal and professional needs. The good news is the act works. General celebration runs riot in the middle of the week. You need to refuel as the weekend begins — you once again take off for yonder lands.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Really check it out, before you make any definitive statement — you'll be much happier. Accept what is and simply focus on 'getting the job done'. Consider starting on an early weekend since you've been so dutiful. You know, the bait is certainly there.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Being a duo is what you're looking at. Please, look into other solutions or call in an expert problem solver if your motives aren't pure. You work late into the weekend. When you let loose, you really do. Don't count on appearing at work next week, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Let another call the shots — you're pleased and delighted. You can learn a lot about this person. Look to arriving at new agreements. Try a more adventuresome approach. Prepare to take off at the drop of a hat. Whatever comes up, you're ready, willing and able.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You may have good intentions, perhaps even great intentions, but the social beast in you awakens and you're off and away (at least from work). Consider taking some vacations days since you're not really present anyway. Spring fever (hot pursuit!) dominates the weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) That surge of creative ideas comes out and helps you score bonus points this week. Listen more, concentrate more, and you are amply rewarded. Your social life responds to your intensity. My, my — aren't we in demand? Get into the fever ... hey, don't forget your little black book!

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may have a hard time getting going this week, but once you do ... there's no stopping you. Be less bewildered and more direct. By the way, it wouldn't be a bad idea to make time for work this week, even if there are better things to do. Discipline yourself, Aquarius, discipline.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Talk all you want, pout all you want, be coy, too, if you must — but nothing is going to change the facts. Stay centered and handle what is unavoidable. Make time for friends and loved ones as the weekend begins. You discover you really can jump this hurdle.

'Wayne's World' successful

The transition from the big screen to the 24-inch one in your living room or den is often made successfully by flicks that are just as enjoyable played on your VCR at home as they were at big screen prices.

Many actors that started on the little screen have found bigger careers in Hollywood.

But this reviewer would have taken bets that a 10-minute bit, as well received as it may be on that star-making weekly phenomena, "Saturday Night Live," would not be accepted when expanded into a full-length movie. Not!

"Wayne's World," the SNL comedy bit that stars Dana Carvey and Michael Myers, is one of the season's biggest comedy bits at the local theaters at $6 plus for adult admission. Though not always hysterically funny, it is fresh and original, quite a feat in these days of repetitiveness.

Wayne, played by Myers, and his buddy Garth, played by the very talented Dana Carvey, do a cable access broadcast from Wayne's parents' basement den in Aurora.

Their musical talk show is based on their lives, which are based on the search for newer and better "babes" and louder heavy metal music. "The guitar, it is my life!"

Like Charlie Chaplin personified the comedy of the 1930s; like the Marx Brothers and Abbott Costello were ridiculous in the 1940s; like Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis went wacky in the 1950s; like Sonny and Cher and Rowan and Martin sang and joked their zany way through the 1960s and 70s; like the comedy clubs made us think and laugh in the 1980s; Wayne and his buddy go with the 1990s just as ham goes with eggs or should we say low fat foods go with diet soda, dude!

To our delight and surprise we find ourselves giving "Wayne's World" four stars out of five. This one's rated PG-13 and we're sure the kids will flock to see it, with some of their parents tagging along.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Shakespeare's 'Pericles' satisfying treat

Critic's Choice

William Shakespeare's work endures because it was written for the masses—not some hoity-toity upperclass enclave.

And when it's performed well, as it is without fail by Chicago's Shakespeare Repertory, the end product is satisfying treat.

"Pericles," which will alternate with "Macbeth" through March 22 at the intimate Ruth Page Theater, 1016 N. Dearborn, is a romantic fairytale involving a lecherous king, a noble prince and a conjurer with amazing restorative power. It features sword fighting, stormy sea crossings and the reuniting of long separated family members. And it is an ideal forum to showcase the beauty of the English language.

Under Barbara Gaines' direction, "Pericles" overflows with vitality and good humor. Instead of an elaborate set, much of the story is suggested by the simplest of devices, such as a well-employed see-saw and a billowing sail to suggest a rough sea crossing. Potent original music by Rokko Jans is another powerful enhancement.

A dynamic 12-member cast, ably led by Peter Aylward as Pericles, plays more than 50 roles. Christine Calkins is tender yet tough as the daughter Marina. John Malloy, Robert Scogin and Peter Siragusa, local theater veterans, add depth to this outstanding production. For tickets call (312)281-1878.—by TOM WITOM

The White Pass & Yukon Railroad

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

It begins at Skagway, Alaska, and climbs to an elevation of 2,865 feet in just 20 miles! When you arrive at the end of the line, White Pass Summit at the Canadian border, you would have traveled one of the most spectacular mountain railroads in the world.

Once deemed impossible to build, the discovery of gold in the Klondike Valley caused construction to begin on the White & Yukon Narrow Gauge Railroad in 1898. With all odds against it, the track reached the summit of White Pass on February 18, 1899, reaching the final destination, the headwaters of the Yukon River, a few months later. It was from here that the gold seekers would start their final journey by boat to the gold fields.

With grades as steep as 3.9%, the construction of this railroad was not an easy task. Workers hung suspended by ropes from vertical granite cliffs, chipping away with picks.

The WP&YR enjoyed a rich and colorful history hauling passengers and freight to the Yukon as well as being a chief supplier for the Army's Alaska Highway project. But, alas, with the plummeting of the world metal prices, in 1982, the great railroad shut down.

Enter the tourist in search of the Klondike adventure. The White Pass & Yukon Railroad is again operating. You can ride the great train and visit places like Pitchfork Falls, one of many waterfalls fed by giant glaciers. You'll travel through Dead Horse Gulch, so named for the 3,000 pack animals who met their end from neglect and overloading. Look for Black Cross Rock. It marks the place where two railroad workers were buried under a 100-ton granite rock during a blasting accident. You'll see the remains of the famed trail of '98, etched in rock by the shuffling feet of thousands of gold-crazed stampedeers and the weary hooves of their pack animals.

If you are lucky enough to visit Skagway, don't miss the three-hour round-trip ride of the WP&YR.

Pope, Commando go home

Videos

The controversial "The Pope Must Diet," formerly "The Pope Must Die," is out on video. Robbie Coltrane stars in this baddy about a lowly priest with crazy ideas becoming Pope.

Also new to the video racks is "Suburban Commando," starring Hulk Hogan and Christopher Lloyd. This is a rather stupid one about a space hero finding himself in a small American town. Those who love "Wrestling Mania" will probably dig it.

Danny Glover, who usually appears in rather choice flicks, slipped when he did "Peter Luck." Martin Short tries to help Glover find his clumsy daughter.

Speaking of alien things, "Body Parts" features Jeff Fahey wrestling with a reattached arm that sort of has a life of its own.

"Defenseless," now ready for your VCR, is a so-so murder mystery with Barbara Hershey and Sam Sheppard. What to do when an old boyfriend, who has since married one of one's best friends, is murdered?

Film aficionados will love the very artsy, "My Twentieth Century," a winner of the Cannes Film Fest two years ago, as it tells the overdone story of twins with different personalities. This one has subtitles.

If you're a foreign film buff, "Nasty Girl," nominated for an Academy Award last year, is just out. This one is done in German with English subtitles. What happens when a German teen learns about the Nazis in her hometown before she was born?

"Don't Tell Mom the Babysitter's Dead," a real stinker about kids going wild when the babysitter has a heart attack. Christina Applegate from tv's "Married With Children" stars.

Blowing into your video store along with the March winds will be the last of the Freddie flicks "Freddie is Dead." —by GLORIA DAVIS

Andre's features 'Love, Sex, and the IRS

Andre's Steakhouse and Rosebud Productions are now presenting the adult comic farce, "Love, Sex, and the IRS" through March 22.

The play revolves around two roommates who file as a married couple even though they are not married and both of the same sex to save on their taxes. The cheating also involves one of the roomie's girlfriend. Add a weird IRS man, an outraged mother, and a drunken landlord and you come up with an evening of laughs and surprises.

Andre's is located on U.S. 12 in Richmond. Call (815)678-2671 for ticket reservations.

Dick Dyer as Grunlon conducts a strange wedding with Yvonne Dyer as Vivian, Stan Livermore as Leslie, Peter Thelen as Jon, and Roz Scheske as Kate.

Drug forfeiture funding boosts efforts at schools

Praising schools

Lake County States Atty. Mike Waller explains how his office's drug assets forfeiture program works. Seventeen schools received funds from the program to be used in anti-drug efforts. Lake County Board Chairman Bob Depke looks on during ceremony in Waukegan.

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Almost $40,000 in funds which used to be in the hands of now convicted drug dealers have been donated to schools.

The total reached $38,000 Friday when school districts were awarded checks in Lake County State's Attorney Mike Waller's drug forfeiture program.

One of the programs which will benefit is the Snowflake effort at St. Joseph in Libertyville. "I learned about courage and self esteem and you have to take value in yourself," eighth-grader Jenny Dydo said.

"When drug dealers are arrested for selling or possession of drugs any assets that they have may be taken in a court proceeding and may be used by schools or law enforcement. There are no tax dollars. Every week there is a story asking about whether or not the war on drugs has been successful or not. If it was easy, we could have accomplished it in the same manner that we won the Persian Gulf war. No one thought it would be easy," Waller said.

The effort is a three-pronged approach: law enforcement, treatment and education.

"If someone gets involved in drugs, that does not necessarily mean that they are a bad person, it does not mean they should be locked up. Through the court system and the support of the county board, we have as fine a treatment system as there is in the country.

"The most important aspect is education. I think you are beginning to see results. In most recent surveys, we see the lowest level of illegal drug use among high school students since we started taking surveys," Waller said.

Schools present used the funds for a wide variety of topics, from DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) programs, to Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), to videos and speakers to Quest. One of the schools, Neal in North Chicago, was holding a lock-in the same night.

Schools receiving funds were: Adler Park in Libertyville; St. Bede Elementary in Ingleside; Emmons Elementary School Dist.; Forrestal School at Great Lakes; Fox Lake Elementary Dist.; Fremont Elementary Dist.; Grayslake Community High School and Indian Hill Elementary School in Round Lake Heights.

Also, St. Joseph School in Libertyville; Katzenmaier and Neal schools in North Chicago; Petty Elementary School in Antioch; North Barrington Elementary school; Roslyn Road Elementary School in Barrington; Transfiguration School in Wauconda and West Oak Middle School in Diamond Lake.

Newlyweds should take time to plan finances

Mixing love and money

When it comes to money management issues, love cannot afford to be blind. Caught in the details and excitement of planning a wedding, couples often fail to discuss one of the most important aspects of their future, how they will manage their money. The Illinois CPA Society recommends that newlyweds take the time to discuss their financial goals and consider how those goals may affect their current and future lifestyles.

Share dreams and goals

Most couples enter marriage with dreams about their future, whether it be a house with a white picket fence, a home filled with children, or travel to exotic places. However, none of those dreams can be comfortably realized unless you and your spouse set specific financial goals.

Make a list of some short-term and long-term financial goals that you each would like to achieve. Then take a look at your spending and saving habits. Ask yourself if these habits will have to change in light of the new goals you have set. For example, if you're accustomed to eating out frequently or going away for long weekends, think about how this will impact your savings goals.

You should also discuss if and when you plan to have children and how this may affect your finances. Today, both spouses are usually working full time when they marry. Will this change when you become a parent? Don't blithely assume that one of you will be able to stop working or that you can maintain the same lifestyle when children come along.

Important budget

The best way to control your spending and plan for the future is by developing a budget. Begin by tracking your monthly expenditures. Identify your fixed expenses such as mortgage or rent payments, commuting cost, and car payments. Then determine how much you are spending on nonessential items such as clothing, vacations, and gifts. You may discover that these nonessentials are claiming a large percentage of your take-home pay and preventing you from saving for some of your more specific long-term goals. If this is the case, make it a priority to put money in your savings account each month before you make any impulsive purchases.

Excluding your home mortgage, don't commit more than 15 percent of your after-tax income to monthly payments, such as school loans, car loans and other consumer debt. And if you have high credit card balances, adopt a strategy for paying them off quickly. Remember, the IRS no longer allows a tax deduction for consumer interest. What's more, some credit card issuers continue to charge an interest rate as high as 20 percent, despite the fact that interest rates have fallen significantly during the past year.

If both you and your spouse have high credit card balances, you may want to investigate some ways to consolidate your debt so you can liquidate it more expeditiously and cost-effectively.

How much togetherness?
As newlyweds, it's important to focus on how you will pay your bills and save for your future. Will you both deposit most of your paychecks into a joint account? If you currently have separate savings and checking accounts, will you be retaining these accounts? What about credit cards? Do you need to keep all the cards you currently have? Do you want to have some credit cards that can be used by both of you?

Each of you should consider retaining a separate bank account as well as at least one credit card in your own name. Many widows and divorced women find it difficult or impossible to get credit because they never established a personal credit history.

Talk taxes

Marriage will have a significant impact on your tax liability, especially if both spouses work. Don't wait until it's time to file your return to discuss taxes with your mate. Give some thought now to your tax strategy and get the help of a professional, such as a CPA, if you feel you need assistance. Identify the potential deductions for which you both may be eligible and consider whether it makes the most sense to file separate or joint returns. In discussing your tax liability, don't just focus on the present. Adopt a long-term view and evaluate how contributing to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) and other tax-deferred savings plans may help you minimize your tax bill and help you save for your future.

Insure your future

Take stock of your assets and determine how you may want them distributed. If you die without a will, your spouse may not receive as much of your estate as you would have intended.

There are other steps you should take to protect your financial future. For example, make sure you have adequate life insurance. This can be essential to providing for your spouse's financial security if you die prematurely.

Increased medical and health-care costs make it especially important that you consolidate or coordinate your medical insurance. You and your spouse should ensure that you have sufficient coverage, but not necessarily duplicate coverage. Also, make yourself familiar with the procedures for making a claim.

Consider some of your other insurance needs, such as disability, homeowners and automobile insurance. In doing so, don't be "penny wise and pound foolish." While you may pay higher premiums for some policies, these policies may offer you better coverage should you find yourself facing an unforeseen crisis or calamity.

CPAs point out that newlyweds who adopt a plan for protecting their assets can help lighten the financial burdens they may have to bear later in their marriage.

Time may be right to refinance homes

Although no one can predict how much further interest rates will decline, they are at their lowest point in recent memory. If you are a homeowner with an Adjustable Rate Mortgage (ARM) or a fixed mortgage with a fairly high interest rate, this could be the time to refinance your home, advises the Illinois CPA Society's Personal Financial Planning Committee.

"The new low rates may sound enticing, but since virtually all lending and financial institutions charge points and/or closing costs, you need to consider how long you plan to remain in your home before refinancing," says Alan Alport, chairman of the Illinois CPA Society's Personal Financial Planning Committee and a partner with Blackman Kallick Bartelstein, a Chicago CPA firm.

As a rough example, let's say you, the homeowner, have a $100,000 mortgage at 10 percent and you want to refinance to get an eight percent rate. Your lender of choice is charging three points (or three percent) to refinance. While you will save approximately $2,000 a year with the new rate, it will take you more than 18 months just to break even on the $3,000 you paid at closing.

Adds Alport, "And this doesn't include what you could have made had you invested this $3,000. Also, don't forget that points paid to refinance homes are generally not deductible."

Once you, the homeowners, decide it's worthwhile to refinance, you will be astounded at the myriad mortgage alternatives now available. Fifteen-year mortgages have become popular, for instance and rates are so good right now that you might be able to refinance with a 15-year loan and still make lower monthly payments than you do right now. For example, a 30-year 14 percent $100,000 mortgage requires a monthly payment of $1,033. Cutting the rate to nine percent and mortgage terms to 15 years decreases the monthly payments by $18 to $1,015.

Bi-weekly payment plans are a "hot" option which may not have been available when you financed your home initially.

"With bi-weekly plans, which are particularly good for people who get paid every two weeks, you make 26 payments, each of which is one-half the size of the payment you now make 12 times a year," says Alport. "With what essentially amounts to one additional full payment, you can cut the length of a 30-year mortgage by more than eight years," he adds.

One word of caution. With rates this low, there is no advantage and possibly some disadvantage to prepaying your mortgage. If you have extra cash, consider investing it. You may do just as well over the long term, and you'll retain liquidity as well.

Tax strategies for the self-employed

The tax advantages of being self-employed, even if it's only a part-time business, can be significant. The Illinois CPA Society suggests some basic strategies you can follow to make the most of your self-employment income.

Business expenses

Whether you are your own boss full time or part time, many of the expenses you incur are deductible as business expenses. These include fees for professional services (such as accounting and legal advice), advertising, equipment rental, uniforms, alarm systems, automobile expenses, and even answering machines.

Retirement plans

People who are self-employed or have sideline businesses are generally eligible to open a Keogh plan or a SEP (Simplified Employment Pension Plan). Depending on the type of plan you open, you can contribute as much as 20 percent of your earned income or $30,000 a year, whichever is less.

Home office expenses

If your office is your home, you may be entitled to special tax breaks. To qualify, your home office must be used exclusively and regularly for your business. In addition, your home office must be your principal place of business or a place where you regularly meet customers or clients.

The deduction works like this: because part of your home qualifies as business property, part of the cost of running it becomes a business deduction. Let's suppose your office space accounts for 10 percent of the space in your house. This means you can deduct as a business expense 10 percent of the costs associated with running your home.

Health insurance costs

The IRS allows self-employed taxpayers to deduct 25 percent of the premiums they pay for medical insurance for themselves, their spouses and dependents. The 25 percent deduction does not apply, however, if you or your spouse are eligible to participate in an employer's health plan.

Special insurance

Insurance premiums on policies that protect your business are also deductible. These include policies covering fires, theft, liability, malpractice, and worker's compensation.

Offset equipment costs

Tax law generally requires that you depreciate over a number of years the cost of equipment you buy for your business. As an alternative to depreciation, you may choose a special "expensing" provision that allows you to take an immediate tax deduction of up to $10,000 per year for equipment purchases.

Estimated tax

If you are self-employed, you are still responsible for paying income tax and Social Security tax on your earnings. To comply with the rules, you need to make quarterly estimated tax payments. You do not have to make estimated tax payments if your withholding for the year equals 90 percent of the total tax shown on this year's return, or 100 percent of the tax you paid last year.

Sign wars erupt in county, state races

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Sign wars have erupted in several races on the March 17 ballot.

They are flaring in the 52nd state representative district where candidate Nancy Masterson is the victim and in the 18th County Board district to candidate Davida Terry. To a lesser extent, they have occurred in the Dist. 1, 3 and 7 county board races.

Two candidates are offering $500 rewards for apprehension of the perpetrators.

Candidates say law enforcement officials told them much of the vandalism looks like the work of hired professionals.

Terry has posted a $500 reward for the arrest of those responsible for destroying an estimated $2,000 worth of her signs one night last weekend. Cut down with a hatchet or ax were almost 40 brightly colored paper signs attached to 4-foot by 8-foot sheets of plywood. A lesser number of small signs, also attached to plywood, were likewise knocked over or removed altogether.

Tire tracks near some of the vandalized or missing signs indicate the culprits drove a 4 by 4 or some type of small truck. In some cases the tire tracks damaged lawns.

Most of the vandalism occurred along major thoroughfares like Port Clinton, Indian Creek and Prairie roads, Rte. 45 and Milwaukee Ave. going into Vernon Hills.

Left untouched were all of the signs for Pam Newton and the few signs of Florence Emling, the other two candidates in the 18th Dist. race.

"My husband spent all day Sunday into Sunday night replacing my signs," Terry said. "I don't know who is responsible, but it is shockingly apparent someone is out to ruin my campaign."

"It is apparent from the way this was done that it wasn't amateurs. The people doing it knew what they were doing."

Terry said this has only heightened her resolve to win the election. "I won't be intimidated," she said. "Strong-arm tactics won't work with me. The voters should decide at the polls, not midnight masqueraders."

The Masterson campaign is running into the same problem. "It is happening throughout the district," said Masterson's husband, Joe, of an area from Fox Lake to Barrington and Libertyville to Lake Zurich. Although most of the missing or vandalized signs are cardboard, a few 4-foot by 8-foot ones on plywood have been knocked down or stolen. He didn't estimate the cost, but a conservative figure is $1,500-plus so far.

"As fast as we put them up they are stolen or knocked down," Masterson said. "It gets to be disheartening. Putting up signs is hard work. After every weekend we have to go around and put them back up."

While the Masterson signs are being hit hardest, those for rival Al Salvi are virtually untouched. "In some cases his signs suddenly appear when ours disappear," Masterson said. "I'm not pointing fingers. But it is mysterious."

Last weekend in Fox Lake Dr. William Dam, retired mayor of that community, spent Sunday afternoon restoring or replacing Masterson signs. Dam is Grant Twp. coordinator for the Masterson campaign.

In the Dist. 7 County Board race, challenger Richard Behr accuses incumbent County Board Chairman Robert Depke of starting a sign war in Warren Twp.

Last weekend several of Behr's large signs were knocked over. Depke signs at the same location were untouched. Small, cardboard ones elsewhere were removed.

"My campaign is being financed by small contributions from average citizens, not big business developers," Behr said. "I don't have the finances of Depke to keep replacing my signs. I also do not have a legion of Warren Twp. road crew employees to do this work."

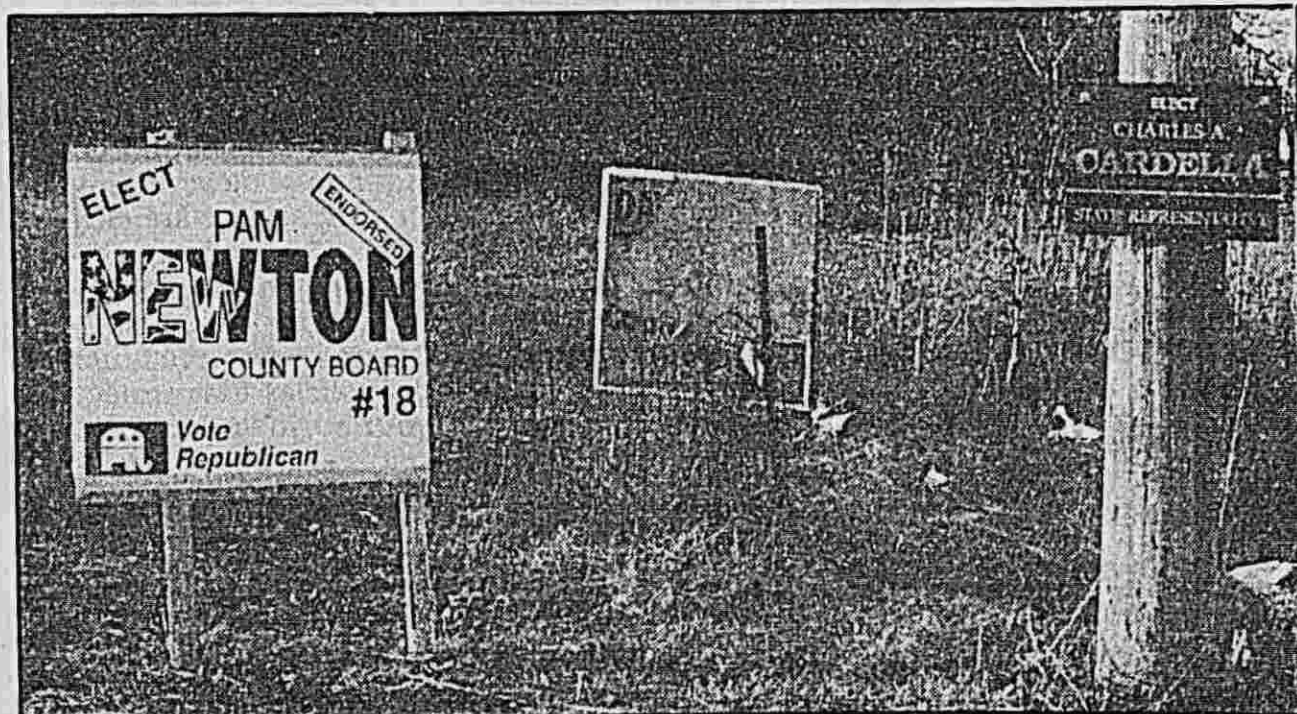

"I call on Depke to at least make an effort to run a fair campaign," Behr said. "He should instruct his workers to stop this petty sign war. The voters will decide with or without signs. I believe they can already see how much money Depke has and where it is coming from."

Judy Martini of rural Antioch, who is running against incumbent Jim Fields in County Board Dist. 1, is also a target. "My signs go down and Fields' signs suddenly pop up," she said. She, too, is offering a $500 reward for arrest of those responsible.

"Or they are just taken. I've got a small budget. The loss of a sign hurts me financially," Martini said she was told by Antioch Streets Commissioner Joe Huber to keep her signs five feet back from utility poles. "I did it. But signs of other candidates are all over the right of way. Give me a break."

Suzi Schmidt, the incumbent targeted for defeat in County Board Dist. 3, had her 4-foot-by-8-foot yellow signs spray painted. Her last name, Schmidt, was spray painted to erase the 'c,' 'm,' and 'd.' Since they were along busy thoroughfares, they were replaced immediately.

Sign wars heat up

Sign war over the weekend in County Board Dist. 18 around Prairie View, Vernon Hills and Lincolnshire destroyed 40-plus signs of candidate Davida Terry. Those of other opponents and candidates went untouched. Also reporting a weekend of lost signs was Circuit Court judge candidate Barbara Gilleran Johnson, Nancy Masterson in the 52nd state representative district, Suzi Schmidt in County Board Dist. 3 and Judy Martini in County Board Dist. 1. Terry and Martini are offering $500 rewards for the arrest of those responsible.

Easing Your Tax Burden

Tax refunds may take up to eight weeks

by DICK WINTRODE

By now many of you have already filed your 1991 tax returns and are patiently waiting for your refund. I would like to spend a few minutes talking about how you can check on the status of your refund, and later talk about electronic filing for those who haven't yet filed.

If it has been at least eight weeks since you mailed your return to us, you can check on the status of your refund by calling our automated refund lines. Many people ask me why they have to wait eight weeks before calling.

The Kansas City Service Center, where Illinois returns are processed, receives over 12 million returns during the filing season. The service center receives about 800,000 returns weekly, in February and over 1,000,000 weekly during March. About 40 percent of all returns arrive during April, including nearly 4,000,000 the last week of the filing season. I have been at the service center in April. Just imagine, one semi-truck after another unload continuously throughout the day.

After returns are sorted, the information must be manually input into computers and checked for accuracy. Approximately 25 different people handle your return during processing. In February, you usually receive your refund four or five weeks after you file. In March, the time increases to six weeks, and in April you have to wait about eight weeks.

So, if you have not received your refund eight weeks after filing, you can call our automated refund lines at 1(312)886-9614. From touch-tone phones, they can be reached weekdays from 7 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Rotary dial phones can be used weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Be sure to have a copy of your tax return available because the computer will ask you for certain information. (Don't forget to keep a copy of your return even after you get your refund).

You will receive one of several messages, telling you the status of your tax return, ranging from the fact that it has been received to the date your check is scheduled to be mailed out. If there is a problem, you will be told to call our assistance lines.

Unless there is a problem, the automated refund system will be the only way you can check on your refund until After 15. We want to keep our regular assistance lines open for tax questions from those who have not yet filed.

The best time to call is late in the week as the computer program is updated once a week, on Wednesdays. Checks are mailed on Fridays, and, depending on the mail service, you normally should have your check by mid-week. If you move, complete a post office change of address card and your check will be forwarded.

If your check is returned to us as undeliverable, we can replace it in six to eight weeks. However, if it has been stolen and cashed, it could take as long as a year to complete the investigation and issue a new check.

As we get closer to the filing deadline, it usually takes eight weeks before you get your refund. However, by using electronic filing and having your refund check deposited directly into your bank account, that time frame can be cut to three to four weeks. The direct deposit feature is perhaps the biggest advantage of using electronic filing. We are able to provide this fast service because when filed electronically, your tax return is processed faster and more accurately. Since it goes from computer to computer, there are fewer errors.

I can attest to the speed of filing electronically. In two of the last three years I had refunds coming and filed electronically. Both years my check was directly deposited into my checking account about three weeks after I filed.

JOHN WILL BE BACK TO WORK TODAY SHOULD WE BRING UP MARY'S DEATH?

A good guideline when a friend loses a loved one is to express your sympathy at the funeral or visitation. If for some reason you didn't get the chance to do that then, express your feelings at the first opportunity. After that, make it clear that you're willing to listen to your friend if he or she wants to talk. Some bereaved persons report that friends avoid them, or else they go to the other extreme and talk about the death constantly. Neither of these is the appropriate. Resuming old conversational topics while allowing the person to bring up their feelings about the death is the best way to be helpful. Death is a part of life, it should not be overly dwelled on or avoided.

For the Week of March 6, 1992

ARIES (3/21 - 4/19): Exercise patience with those slower than you. Spiritual values will surge forward and help you to resolve a personal conflict. Aquarius plays role.

TAURUS (4/20 - 5/20): Don't drag your feet today. Swift and thoughtful actions will be rewarded. What had formerly been questioned will now become answered. Look for Cancer to play role.

GEMINI (5/21 - 6/20): Stop playing games with mate or partner. Fantasy may become reality. Seek companionship and advice from stable friend. Make motives clear.

CANCER (6/21 - 7/22): Be careful not to make heroic sacrifice. Money could be at stake. Invite member of opposite sex to home to share a meal and good, healthy laugh.

LEO (7/23 - 8/22): Today is highlighted by challenge. Rise above, meet it and claim your rightful throne. Don't even for an instant fear failure. Share good fortune with mate; a deserved celebration.

VIRGO (8/23 - 9/22): Let your defenses down and live a little. Don't be so pragmatic. Good fortune in the form of new love or money is impending. Gemini and Pisces play important roles.

Defense always an 'in' when tourney time comes

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Some stylists may tell you the wet look is in among men.

Going by that premise, College of Lake County women's basketball Coach Don Zeman may have been looking the latest fashion following the Lancers' 62-43 win over McHenry.

The Lancers had just given Zeman some well-earned water in celebration of the Region IV Division II quarterfinal game. The Lancers, the top-rated junior college defensive team in the Region II and ranked 10th nationally, advanced to the semifinals against Kishwaukee at College of DuPage March 5. The other semifinal pits Triton and Kankakee. The title game is March 7 at 7 p.m.

While the wet look may come and go, stifling defense is always in vogue in basketball. CLC held the visitors scoreless for almost 14 minutes over two halves as they broke the game open.

"We played with the intensity we needed. You could tell from the get-go they were ready to let it out on somebody and they really did," CLC Coach Don Zeman said.

Sophomore center Caryn Alexander led the way with 27 points while Stephanie Seier had 18 as CLC improved to 23-2.

CLC led only by one, 19-18, when Seier hit a three-pointer for a four-point lead.

That set the Lancers off to a 13-0 run at the end of the first half, giving the home team a 14-point bulge. MCC, meanwhile could not buy a basket, missing its last nine shots of the half.

"We talked about that at halftime - not letting them get a run and get back into the game," Zeman said.

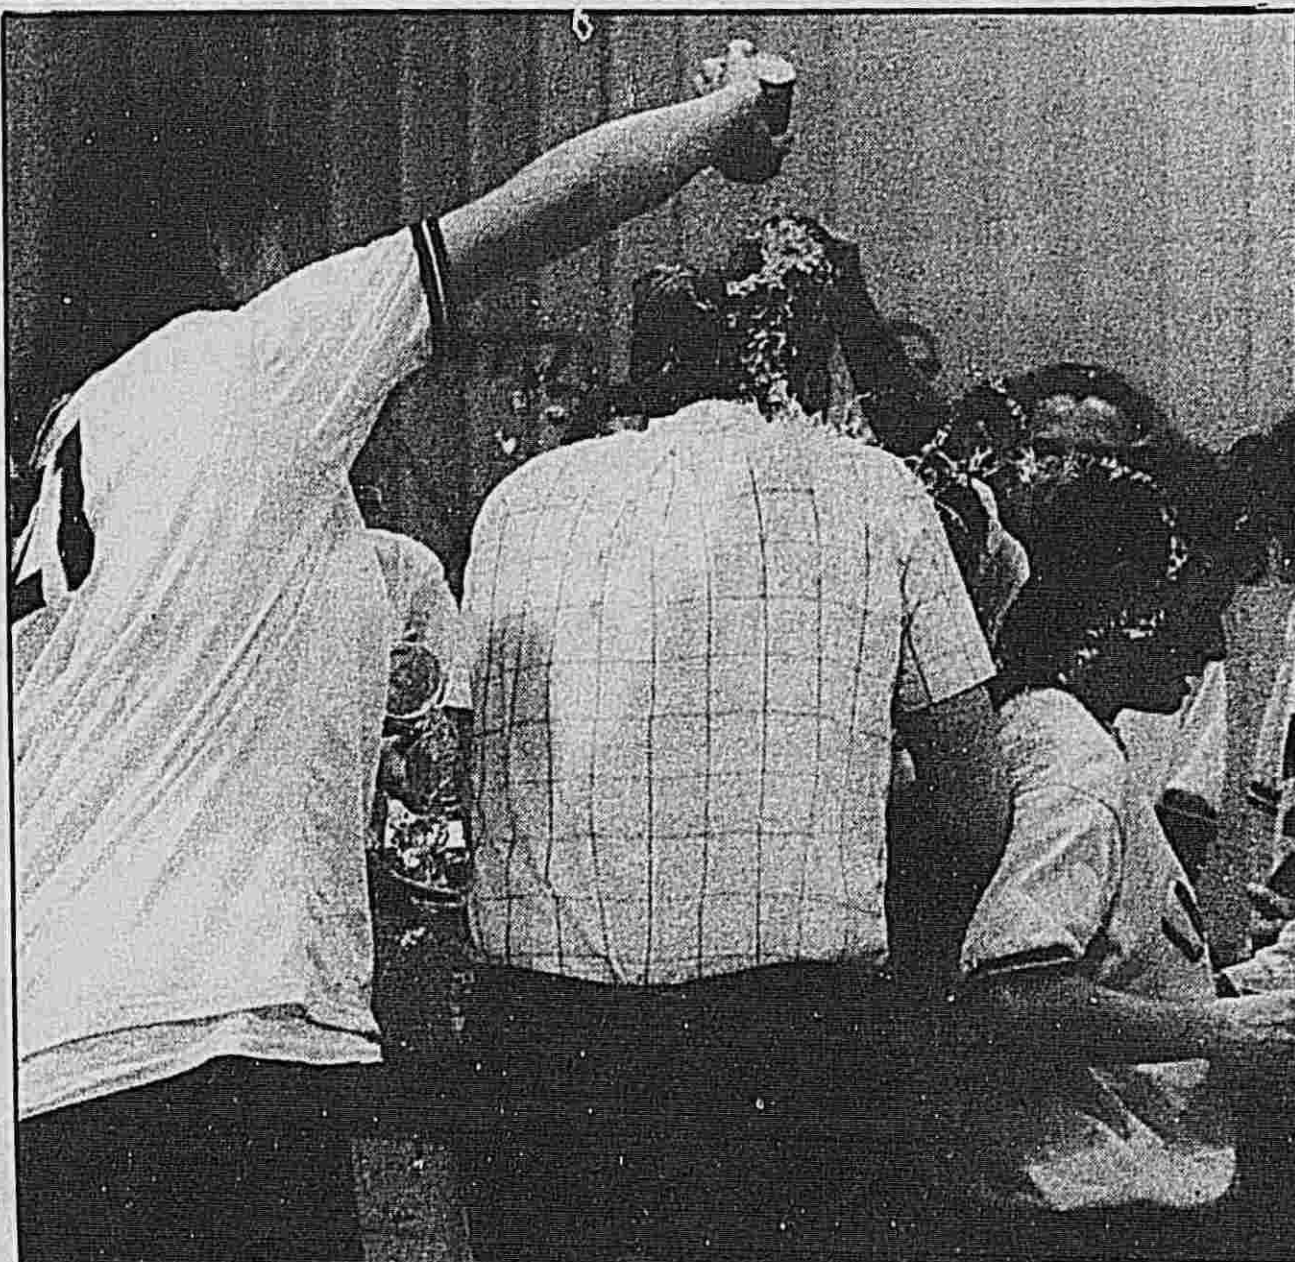

The trend continued in the second half when MCC missed its first six shots. As she had done in the first half, Alexander started with two baskets, giving the Lancers an 18-point lead.

Nancy Walsh had 15 points to lead the Scots, who downed Rock Valley to set up the CLC game. MCC was held to 24 percent shooting from the field. While they regained the shooting touch midway through the second half, CLC had built up a 21-point lead.

It was somewhat fitting that Alexander would score the last Lancer basket - on a tip-in for a 22-point lead.

"Caryn responded. She hit her first three or four shots of the game and that set the tone. She knows when to kick it out and when not to. She does a very good job of that," Zeman said.

"My teammates just gave me the ball. I think our passes were more crisp than they usually are - they were on target and we made very good mistakes. That is what will win it for us," Alexander said.

Alexander knew early on of CLC's strong potential

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

When one talks about chemistry of a basketball team, that may change throughout the year as each player fits into the puzzle.

But the wait was a short one for College of Lake County women's basketball Coach Don Zeman.

"It just happened the first game," sophomore center Caryn Alexander said.

For Alexander, this sports season has seen her skills improve. Skills - whether it be a block of an opponent's hit over the volleyball net or a turn-around jumper in the lane. "Coach Schramm (Chuck, former CLC women's coach and now Highland Park High coach) definitely had an influence on me," Alexander said.

Alexander reached the level of sixth leading scorer in the NJCAA region at 20 points and five rebounds a game as the Lancers (23-2) prepare for the semifinal round of the Region IV playoffs at the College of DuPage March 5. The title round is March 7.

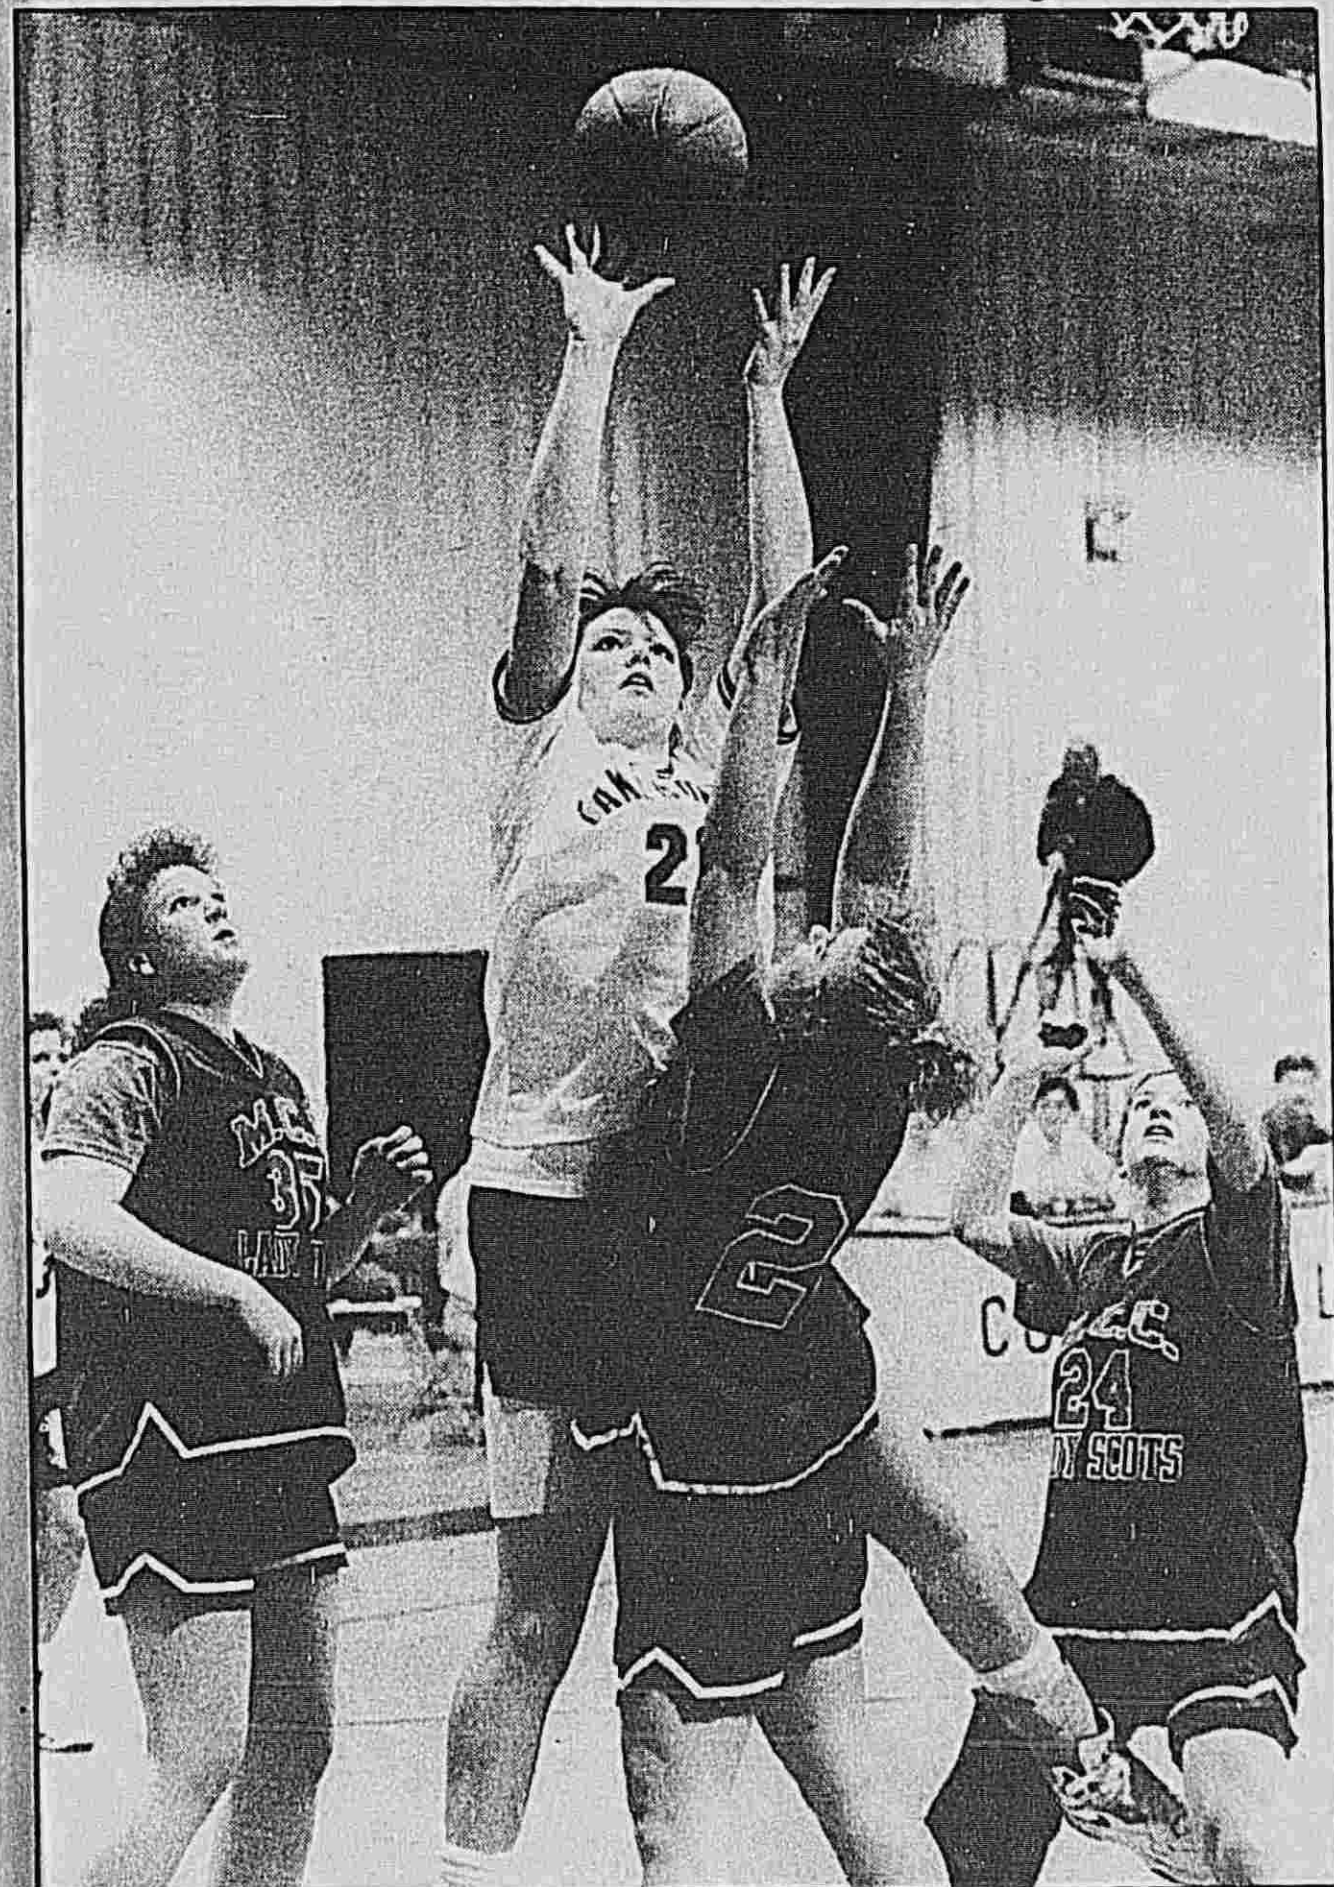

"Her defensive skills overall and her shot blocking without getting into foul trouble," CLC Coach Don Zeman said of Alexander's improvements.

Zeman explained last year Alexander was content to try and block a player after coming inside. "Now she is able to slide over and help. That is hard to teach," Zeman said.

Alexander set the tone in the Lancers' 63-42 win over McHenry, a win which avenged the Lancers overtime loss. She scored 27 points on 13-for-19 shooting, had five blocks and several altered shots and even came up with a nice assist on a pass to a wide open Stephanie Seier.

Alexander is drawing Division I attention, as Northern Illinois University's Jayne Albright-Dieterle was on hand watching the CLC-MCC clash.

Alexander is quick to give credit to her teammates. Seier is averaging 13 points a game and had 18 against McHenry. Jenny Hagen had six and Jenny D'Andrea had five against MCC. Melissa Webster is the (Continued on page 47)

Volling's rehab efforts pay off for Round Lake

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

It would have been easy for Round Lake's Scott Volling to take practices as such last month.

After all, he knew he probably would not be playing with two of his fingers rendered unusable for a half-dozen games.

"The prognosis was bad. He could have closed-up shop. He never once stopped conditioning. If he didn't run on the side with us, if he didn't do the weight work, he would never have been able to play right now. He is in outstanding shape," Round Lake Coach Bob Ward.

The never-say-die attitude, which has marked the theme of this year's Round Lake boys basketball team, helped the Panthers survive on a shot by Volling with six seconds left in a 63-61 win over Johnsburg.

The Panthers (8-6, 14-11) finish in second place in the Northwest Suburban Conference. Round Lake played at Mundelein in the first regional game March 4, hoping to vie for a spot in a regional title game March 6.

"We were supposed to bring the ball up, and take it to the basket or look to dish it off or score. I saw the lane was open, so I counted on shooting. They had two defenders right there. I was hoping I could stop before I ran into them. I saw it (the shot) was going to hit off the backboard," Volling said.

Volling missed six games due to the hand injury, before coming back against Wauconda the week before. "What he did was he taped it so it would be immobile," Volling said of Round Lake trainer Tate Martens.

"It hurt more tonight than against Wauconda," Volling, who scored 11 points, said. He added he makes sure a splint stays on the injured hand. Ward said Volling did not practice much on plays and such, concentrating on conditioning.

"I don't have the same kind of touch I did without the splint. It's hard to get the flick of the wrist," Volling said.

The Panthers were working on a five-man weave drill when Volling was injured.

Before Volling's heroics, (the second time he won a game in the closing moments), Adam Tesch was the headliner with 22 points. This from a forward who may still be recovering from an ankle injury suffered the last game of the football season. Tesch scored from all areas - from the layin to the outlet pass on the fastbreak.

Johnsburg was led by 16 points from guard Erich Hoffmann, got 14 from Jon Mulnar and 11 from Rob Loser.

Round Lake fans at the last regular season home game may have been wondering "not again" as the ball bounced wildly in the final seconds. "Looking back, it was tough losing all those close ones, but we do not let anything like that keep us down," Volling said.

Johnsburg actually took a 56-55 with 2:48 left on an Hoffmann free throw and upped it to four, 59-55, on a three-pointer by Rob Loser.

Scott Ellenwood had 18 points for Round Lake, all coming on three-point shots. His last, with 1:27 left, brought the home team to within four.

Pat Lejman scored 12 points, his most important coming when he slid past Johnsburg rebounders and tipped in a missed free throw with 42.9 seconds left.

That gave RL a 61-61 tie. After both teams stole the ball, Vinnie Lira passed to Volling in the lane.

CLC offering workshops

College of Lake County will be sponsoring a workshop on coaching soccer Saturday, March 7 and softball on Saturday, March 14.

Antioch grad Ozga motivates teammates

Sue Ozga

Millikin University guard Susan Ozga of Antioch assists her teammates on and off the basketball court, according to her coach.

"Susan has the perfect makeup for a guard because she is so unselfish. She has a great attitude that rubs off on the other players. She even helps us off the floor and is always putting notes on other players' lockers before the game to get them ready to play," Millikin Coach Lori Kerans said.

Ozga, a five-foot seven freshman, played in nine games for the Decatur school. She scored a season-high five points against North Central.

She is majoring in nursing and is the daughter of Bill and Sally Ozga of Antioch.

Millikin finished 17-9 overall, fifth in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin with a 9-7 record. Millikin had a strong late season, with a five-game win streak that included a 78-70 win over Carroll and a 84-69 win over Illinois Wesleyan. The team fell 66-63 at Elmhurst season finale.

Letters to the Editor

What happened?

Editor:

I'm concerned, as are many others, with the village of Antioch's decision to effectively "gag" the results and conclusions reached in the Antioch landfill court case. In discussing this issue with the Lake County Board candidate Judy Martini, it appears she has more questions than I have:

Why were the decisions withheld from the citizens most effected?

How much did the case cost Antioch?

Is there a danger to our drinking water?

Who will supervise a monitoring program and for how long at what cost?

What dangerous chemicals are in the landfill?

Mrs. Martini indicates she will make it "her job" to answer these questions—area well drillers speculate leakage from the landfill will flow toward her home located several miles southwesterly from the dump.

We, as a community, need answers denied us by legal actions and the court system. Judy Martini is making it her job to get full disclosure in the landfill case; let's hold her to her word.

Frank Sullivan
Antioch

Insulting voters

Editor:

I am incensed when the intelligence of the electorate is insulted with scare tactics to generate votes. Dealing with garbage can cover more than solid waste disposal, it can also describe the campaign propaganda of Judith Martini, challenger to Jim Fields, in the County Board election in Dist. 1.

She states the present County Board is going to infect our livestock, contaminate the milk supply, and put pregnant women and the unborn at risk, by toxic runoffs caused by incineration. Apparently, she bases these statements on the fact that the County Board has been, and is, studying incineration as one method of solid waste disposal.

She didn't tell you they were studying all known methods to solve the solid waste disposal problem. She didn't tell you that the utilization of filters and scrubbers greatly reduce pollution in an incineration program. Air filters are said to remove 99 percent of particulates. Scrubbers (which remove both particulates and gases) are said to trap over 99 percent of particulates and approximately 80 to 95 percent of sulfur-oxide gases.

Another statement in her literature is that Antioch, compared to other communities in the number of building permit issued, is near the top of the list. Even if we assume this is correct, she is addressing only part of the picture with the solid waste "issue." Growth in Antioch has occurred in the Village of Antioch, not the unincorporated areas which are governed by the Lake County Board. Perhaps she is running in the wrong election and should consider a run for village trustee.

I am greatly concerned when I see a "shot gun" approach to problem solving. I am greatly concerned when I see facts twisted. I am greatly concerned when generalities are used to draw erroneous conclusions. The ability and character of anyone engaging in these kinds of tactics needs to be deeply questioned. The people of County Board Dist. 1 deserve better than a candidate who uses smoke and mirrors for campaign issues.

CHF Industries plant closes

Grayslake will be looking for an industry to replace CHF Industries after the company closed its doors last week.

"The company informed us last Friday that they were closing," Grayslake Village Manager Mike Ellis said.

CHF Industries manufactured office furniture and had some 80 employees.

"Like most of our manufacturing firms, most of their workers lived out of town," Ellis said.

The plant closing is the largest in Grayslake since the former Mangood plant moved its operations east in 1985.

After the joyful years of puppyhood (or kittenhood) come times of maturity. Now both the pet and the pet owner can cash in on the investment of time and effort and enjoy the stability of the grown-up pet. True? Not always. Some animals, like some of us, never really grow up. Is it bad? No! Who needs a pet who symbolizes wisdom and dignity, who never acts foolish and rambunctious who does not know how to play? As years go by, everyone begins to change as one's body and mind change in certain ways.

With youth wearing and the mature times coming, we and our pets enter our golden years, years doctors undignifiably call Geriatric. It just so happens that the average lifespan of our pets is less than ours, several times less. Consequently, we witness the arrival and departure of these animals who become part of us, our families and our lives. Time comes to take a serious look at the "maintenance" factor, more important now than before. A pet properly protected by his conscientious owner may expect better quality and longer life. If your pet is eight years of age or older, it is considered a senior or a geriatric patient by veterinarians. These older pets are special and as such they have special needs.

Just as a person of a certain age, an older pet needs to have his or her health evaluated by a professional. Periodic checks may detect abnormalities at early stages, when help is easier to obtain. The owner may be advised what to look out for, and how to prevent possible problems. To mention some common problems affecting an older pet, dental disorders seem most common. Good dental preventative measures may extend the dog or cat's life for as much as two years. Commonly seen are internal problems such as kidney disease, liver conditions, and heart problems. Medication and properly designed nutrition may prove beneficial to control some of these disorders and give our beloved pets more quality time with us. Most veterinarians advise that a senior pet be examined carefully at least once a year.

Old age problems may produce symptoms such as lack of stamina, fatigue, increased thirst, poor haircoat, periodic vomiting or irregular bowels.
